Bavarians Defy New Government Edict REFUSE TO DISMISS LEADER

Retain Von Lossow As Army Chief Despite Protest of Stresemann

CRISIS IN SAXONY HELD NEARING END

Chancellor Gains Support Through Victory Over Socialists

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—The Bavarian government has decided to retain former federal dictator Von Lossow, despite Chancellor Stresemann's demand that he be dismissed, Munich dispatches said today.

Von Lossow was appointed commander of the Bavarian reichswehr when, following his removal as dictator in Bavaria by the reich, federal troops in the area were ordered to take an oath of loyalty to the state instead of the reich.

The tension was considerably relieved when it was learned the Saxons had decided to form a new government free of the communists to whom the central government objected.

The attempts of the radical labor organizations to force a general strike throughout the state in defiance of Federal Dictator Mueller's decree, were reported in latest dispatches to have met with little success.

In Berlin another threatened cabinet crisis came and went. Efforts of some of the Socialists to bring their organization to demand relief from the coalition cabinet of their representatives failed and Chancellor Stresemann's prestige went up correspondingly today.

The federal government was still waiting today for compliance with its demand that the Bavarian government place the reichswehr in its district back under the federal control from which it kidnapped them a week ago by administering an oath of loyalty to the state government.

The government's demand was not accompanied by threats, but it was thought the presence of between 50,000 and 60,000 troops in Saxony might soon be rendered unnecessary by Saxon compliance and this was considered here as sufficient warning to bring Bavaria to time.

Girl Ends Life On Return From Dance

WINNEMUCA, Nev., Oct. 31.—Miss Rose Erringer, whose parents are said to reside at Sacramento, Calif., died here early today from poisoning.

The girl returned from a dance party after midnight. She went to her room and drank poison, according to information to the coroner. She died within 15 minutes. No reason for her act was assigned.

She lived with Mrs. Guy Ashbury, a sister, here.

Ten million marks in Germany today! Yet it isn't worth one copper of Uncle Sam's currency. In Germany, however, it buys a loaf of bread, five cigarettes or a box of matches. With the fall of the mark, the government is even cutting down the size of the paper it's printed on.

HIGH FINANCE IN KLAN CIRCLES IS TOLD IN HEARING

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 31.—Denial that money of the Ku Klux Klan was spent for political purposes in Oklahoma or Chicago campaigns was made by H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, today in the receivership hearing of David Rittenhouse.

Evans, in an affidavit, declared funds had been sent into Oklahoma and other states from the imperial palace for law enforcement and general Klan work.

Testimony regarding alleged misuse of funds of the Klan occupied most of the morning session.

A letter written by N. P. Forrest, grand dragon of the Georgia Klan, to N. N. Furney, treasurer, revealed a heavy expense account for "covering the special 1923 campaign in the Georgia legislature."

The statement for one week ending August 25 included $1,263.13 for the expenses of the chief of staff and one worker in connection with the legislative campaign.

Furney, in a deposition, declared sums from $50 to $5,000, totaling more than $1,000,000, within four months, were paid out on verbal orders of H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, without any further voucher for the amounts.

FEAR VICTIMS OF L. A. AUTO CRASH DYING

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Fears were entertained today that two of twenty-four victims of a collision between a police machine and a fire truck would not survive, following a disastrous accident last night on a downtown street corner.

Both machines were racing to a downtown fire when they met at the street intersection. They swept across the street together, over the curb and into a crowd of people waiting for street cars.

William Kirtchler, driver of the fire truck, and Miss Margaret Harrison, a bystander, both suffering from skull fractures, are not expected to live.

Harry Frost, police detective, and Vincent Wintermute, police chauffeur, were both injured internally.

The list of injured included: W. J. Steinbrink, John Sahakian, Miss Olive Walters, Mrs. Frank R. Holt, Fred Henneman, F. C. Freitas, Freeman, Mrs. E. E. Chambers, Mrs. Kirtchler, Thomas Barrett, Mrs. Y. Ortega, William Leherke, Mrs. Anna Basura, Mrs. D. MacIntyre, Mrs. Ellen Lees, Gene Reneau, Miss Dolly McAteer and E. A. Spencer. The extent of their injuries will be determined today. Several may be fatally injured.

Traffic Officer E. M. Ferguson, on duty at the street intersection, claimed he did not hear the police machine.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS INTO EAST SOUTH

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The East and portions of the South are in line for a taste of the cold and snow that yesterday visited the northwest and established October records, the weather bureau forecast today.

Rising temperatures were registered in this part of the country as the cold wave swept to the East and South.

Below zero temperature was registered in Nebraska during the night.

At Norfolk the thermometer dropped to seven below zero. Many points in western Nebraska reported temperatures around zero.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—Kansas and Missouri experienced the coldest weather of the year last night, the mercury dropping to below freezing.

Snow flurries were reported in some sections.

Rising temperature with fair weather was predicted.

The lowest temperature recorded here was 26 above zero. Farmers believed the heavy frost would benefit in seasoning corn.

America's Great Welsh Colony Pays Tribute to Lloyd George

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—The biggest Welsh settlement in America acclaimed Lloyd-George today, the last day of his high speed tour of American cities.

He was met by a delegation which oddly mingled the silk hat of the banker and business magnate with the lamp of the coal miner.

First the bankers and business men cheered him and then the lads with the lamps on their caps let go.

Lloyd-George greeted them like a brother, for he feels a deep interest in these men who go into the earth for coal. His youth was spent in a district where the mining of songs as only the Welsh can sing them are the principal occupations.

Lloyd-George greeted them last speech, but one, of his tour, in the armory here this afternoon.

This evening he will leave for Hoboken, whence he will go to the home of John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, whose guest he will be while in New York.

BIG MASONIC CEREMONIAL PLAN TOLD

Laying of Cornerstone For Washington Memorial Draws Throng

(By United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Masons not only from all over the United States but from all quarters of the globe here today were ready to go forward with the outstanding event in the history of free Masonry in America—the laying of the cornerstone of the $4,000,000 George Washington Masonic National Memorial tomorrow at Alexandria, Va.

President Coolidge, Chief Justice Taft of the Supreme Court, and other dignitaries, will be present at the ceremonies.

Tomorrow an impressive parade, composed of thousands of Free Masons, "Pershing's Own" army band and soldiers, sailors and marines will move from Alexandria at 11 a. m. to Shoppers Hill on Arlington Ridge, overlooking the national capitol, to lay the cornerstone of the great edifice to be erected there.

14,000 Marchers

There will be about 14,000 marchers in line, it is estimated, with 2,000 in uniform.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will deliver the address at the laying of the cornerstone.

The cornerstone will be laid with all the impressive ceremonies of free masonry. Every state in the union will deposit some memorial in the cornerstone which will be laid by Deputy Grand Master Charles H. Callahan, the originator of the temple project.

Heading the parade will be the military organizations. Then will come the citizen's committee

BRIBE PLOT IS AIRED IN OKLA. PROBE

SUM OF SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS INVOLVED IN NEW SENSATION IN WALTON FIGHT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 31.—Charges of bribery in connection with the impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton, were aired in the state senate today.

Senator Ross N. Lillard called attention to an article printed in the Muskogee Times-Democrat which reported the alleged meeting of two members of the legislature in an Oklahoma City office building where a bribe of several thousand dollars was declared by the paper to have been discussed.

REVEALS HORRORS OF 20-HOUR WAIT IN SUNKEN CRAFT

(Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

BALBOA, C. Z., Oct. 31.—"After watching the clock for 15 hours we could stand it no longer and tried to forget it."

"The last 20 minutes were terrible."

Lawrence T. Brown, chief electrician's mate of the United States submarine, O-5, which sank in Canal Zone waters, today gave the United Press his story of how it feels to be trapped for many hours in a disabled submarine on the bottom of the sea, where every breath brings death nearer.

Brown, who hails from Lowell, Mass., and Henry Breault, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., were rescued alive from the sunken submarine.

"I was below, resting before going on duty, when the crash came," said Brown. The crash was a collision with a steamship.

Boat Sank Quickly

"I was aroused by Breault. The boat sank in 30 seconds, settling in 40 feet of water at an angle of 70 degrees to the starboard."

"We hung to a ladder to keep from rolling out into 12 inches of water which had come in before the door was closed. The lights went out about 30 seconds after we went down. We had a flashlight but no food and no water."

"Forty-five minutes after going down the batteries in the after compartment exploded and the fire burned for five minutes, making it

HINT LEGAL ROW CAUSE OF CRIME

EVIDENCES OF BITTER STRUGGLE FOUND ABOUT HOME OF RICH COUPLE

(By United Press Leased Wire)

HANFORD, Calif., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Kate N. Stephens was found shot through the heart at the C. A. Stephens' ranch in the Hardwick section early this morning and her husband, Charles A. Stephens, is in the county jail with a charge of homicide pending, although no formal accusation was made this morning.

The alleged murder took place about 7 o'clock this morning. There were evidences of a struggle in the cook house, a separate building from the residence. The body of the slain woman was found in the yard, about twenty feet from the door of the kitchen, with a bloody trail leading from the kitchen to the spot where she fell.

Mrs. Stephens had been shot in the back with a shotgun.

The Stephens were separated but not divorced, living in different parts of the same house. A lawsuit followed the separation and a division of the property was ordered by the court.

Pending a further decision both man and wife stubbornly refused to give up actual residence at the ranch and they have lived there in separate rooms, using separately the same kitchen, silently and morosely regarding each other until, it is believed, something precipitated a quarrel, leading to the tragedy of this morning.

Stephens this morning went to the home of Attorney J. Frank Pryor, one of his counsel in a recent superior court suit between himself and Mrs. Stephens for title to the valuable Hardwick ranch. He told the lawyer to send a doctor to the ranch. Dr. C. T. Rosson of Hanford went to the ranch and found the woman dead. He notified the sheriff's office and Coroner Ed. T. Smith.

Sheriff Hime and Deputy Sheriff Walker went to the ranch and brought Stephens and three guns to the county jail. Stephens maintains a policy of silence and declares he is not going to try to escape.

The coroner and Deputy Coroner Mathieson went to the Hardwick property and brought the body to the morgue here. No time for the inquest will be set until after further investigation. The coroner stated a boy in one of the neighboring houses said he heard one shot about 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Stephens leaves a daughter, Mrs. Ray Kimball of this city, and a son, Oliver Stephens of San Francisco. There are three grandchildren.

JAPANESE PAY TRIBUTE TO U. S. ENVOY

(By United Press Leased Wire)

TOKYO, Oct. 31.—The Empress of Japan today granted a farewell audience to American Ambassador Cyrus E. Woods, who sails tomorrow for San Francisco on the liner President Cleveland.

Many elaborate farewell ceremonies and demonstrations of affection and regret at his departure were tendered the American ambassador by all ranks of Japanese official and unofficial society yesterday and today, showing the empire's appreciation of America's attitude toward Japan and of the ambassador's own personal worth.

Press and public have joined in expressions of regret at Woods' departure.

FEAR POISON PLOT AGAINST ACTRESS

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Precautions were taken today to safeguard the life of Miss Eloise Clement, actress, prosecuting witness in the case against Michael Degnan, wealthy business man, whom she claims attempted to kill her by garroting her with a silk cord several months ago.

Degnan's trial is set for December. He is at liberty under $10,000 bond. Yesterday investigators in the case reported they found Methyl alcohol, a poison, in a bottle given Miss Clement by a woman representing herself as interested in a series of lectures recently given by Miss Clement. The latter turned the bottle over to authorities.

Highway Body Announces Plans To Eliminate Grade Crossings

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Announcement was made by the state highway commission today of a comprehensive program to remove eventually all grade crossings from California highways.

When finished the program will involve $14,500,000 expenditure, it was estimated.

The commission outlined its program as having three phases:

First, no grade crossings will be permitted hereafter on new highways.

Second, wherever repair or reconstruction of existing highways is in progress this work will include elimination of grade crossings.

Third, all remaining grade crossings will be gradually eliminated as funds become available.

CALM HALTS VESSELS IN TROPHY RACE

AMERICAN CRAFT LEADING WHEN SECOND HEAT OF INTERNATIONAL CLASH POSTPONED

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 31.—The second race between the Canadian Blue Nose and the American Columbia was called off this afternoon when both yachts were practically becalmed between the second and third marks.

The Blue Nose crossed the starting line at 9:32 a. m. The Canadian defender was ten seconds ahead of the American challenger, which got over the line at 9:42. There was a 15 knot northwestern breeze at the start.

The Columbia passed the first mark at 10:20:21, a minute and 40 seconds ahead of the Blue Nose and was leading when the race was called off.

'MY OWN' NOW AT LATONIA FOR RACE

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 31.—My Own, Admiral Cary T. Grayson's three-year-old, arrived at Latonia shortly before noon today for the championship on Saturday in which he will meet Zev and In Memoriam, western champion.

The appearance of the Grayson colt, which arrived in good shape after an overnight trip from Laurel, Md., quickened interest in next Saturday's race, which brings together the three leading three-year-olds of the country.

Announcement from New York that Zev, conqueror of Papyrus in the international stake race at Belmont Park, October 20, was to start in a race at Empire City, N. Y., today caused little apprehension concerning the Sinclair colt's appearance here for the Latonia championship.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK

N. Y., Oct. 31.—Zev, the great Ranocas three-year-old, won the $5000 autumn championship stake race here this afternoon in his final eastern appearance of the season.

Braca, stablemate of Zev, was second and Tryster, from the S. P. Harlan stable, finished third.

LIVERMORE, CALIF., RANCHER MAKES $59,000 OF SALE OF LAND

(By United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Comptroller General of the United States J. R. McCarl approved within the last few days the payment of additional funds amounting to $33,000 in fees to Matthew O'Brien, San Francisco architect, for plans for the Livermore, Calif., hospital which were never used, General Hines, present director of the veteran bureau, testified today before the senate committee investigating the affairs of the bureau.

The $33,000 makes a total of $97,000 paid to O'Brien, according to the testimony that has been made before the committee. Hines testified last week that $64,000 had been paid to O'Brien for these unused plans during the regime of Colonel Forbes, former head of the veterans' bureau, and that the architect had a further claim for $33,000.

When recalled to the stand today Hines said that in spite of his strenuous objections the comptroller had allowed and without notice to him had paid the additional $33,000 to O'Brien.

Lieutenant Colonel E. J. Boughton, associate general counsel of the veterans' bureau, took the stand and testified that he had called at the comptroller's office Oct. 25, 1923, to attempt to learn reasons for the unexpected approval of the O'Brien claim.

He said he was unable to learn who had approved the claim or any reason for the approval. He was told, he said, that the usual practice of the comptroller's office was to deny a claim when it was based on facts disputed by an administrative officer of the government.

Senator Reed directed General J. F. O'Ryan, counsel for the committee, to request the comptroller to dispatch to the hearing an official of the comptroller's office who had knowledge of the approval of the O'Brien claim and who could explain the action.

Boughton, continuing his testimony, stated that this claim was the only one he had known of which had been approved over the protest of the director of the veterans' bureau.

Lucien B. Johnson, San Francisco, told the committee that the 227 acre tract purchased by the government for a hospital site near Livermore for $105,000, February 6, 1922, had been secured by him between October 1920 and the date of the sale at a cost of $45,932.02.

Johnson said that an option on the land had been taken by Thomas O'Dea, San Francisco real estate dealer, who arranged the sale to the government. A commission of $20,000 was stipulated for O'Dea.

The only apparent irregularity brought out after hours of examination of Johnson was his statement that the day he received his check from the government he paid Owen Eckles, an agent of O'Dea, the sum of $22,000 in bills. Johnson told the committee he knew of no reason for the request for payment in bills instead of by check.

It was brought out incidentally by the introduction of a letter from former director Charles R. Forbes to President Harding that the latter was acquainted with the Livermore affair and had approved the eventual purchase by the government.

Convict Slayer In Unwritten Law Case

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Frank McGann, charged with the murder of Ralph McAdams, whom he accused of breaking up his home, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter by the jury after two hours' consideration.

The charge was reduced as McGann was tried for first degree murder. Defense counsel will give notice of appeal Thursday.

Insurance Broker of S. A. Called by Death

John Allen Bond, insurance broker of this city, died at 9:30 o'clock last night at his residence, 847 North Ross street, following a lingering illness.

Mr. Bond, who was born in Vermont, September 4, 1854, came to Santa Ana December 4, 1917. He was a life member of Washington lodge No. 241, F. & A. M., Burlington, Vt., and also a member of Hermosa (Santa Ana) Chapter No. 105, O. E. S.

Funeral arrangements will be made later, pending the arrival of a daughter from the East.

Charge of Reckless Driving Made After Two Autos In Crash

Robert Clark, of Santa Ana, today had deposited $200 bail for his appearance in the court of Justice J. B. Cox, at 10 a. m. November 22, for trial on a charge of reckless driving.

As Clark last night was driving out of the driveway at the home of George Manderscheid, on Greenville road, his car was said to have collided with an automobile driven by Manuel Castillano. The latter is the complaining witness in the suit. Clark today pleaded not guilty to the charge filed against him.

Reckless Driving Case Facing Santa Ana Man

R. O. Clark was in the county jail today, charged with reckless driving, following his arrest here last night by Officer Krauchi at Clark's home, 1246 West Fifth street. The warrant, issued from the office of Sheriff Sam Jernigan, charged Clark with responsibility for an automobile wreck, several days ago near Greenville.

According to authorities, Clark was driving an automobile while intoxicated and was responsible for the collision of two automobiles. He died after the wreck, it was alleged.

BONAR LAW FUNERAL IS SET FOR MONDAY

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LONDON, Oct. 31.—The family of the late Andrew Bonar Law, former prime minister of England, decided today to accede to the national request to permit his burial in Westminster Abbey, despite his desire for privacy, it was announced.

The funeral will be held Monday. It will be attended by members of the royal family, Prime Minister Baldwin, members of the cabinet and many of the most prominent persons in England.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the English church, and the Bishop of London will officiate at the ceremony.

The body will be placed in the north transept alongside the tombs of Pitt, Gladstone and other of England's most cherished statesmen.

OBREGON OPENS WAR ON GAMBLING HALLS

(By United Press Leased Wire)
NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 31.—The port of Nogales, Sonora, was expected to be closed today against visitors from the American side of the line following the refusal of authorities there to obey the mandate of President Obregon that two gambling houses, opened Saturday night, be immediately closed.

Residents complained that gambling was running high 24 hours a day. Both establishments were located on the "Great White Way" of Nogales. An order was also issued by President Obregon cancelling any concessions which may have been granted such establishments.

SCENT MURDER CLUE AS SKULL IS FOUND

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Oct. 31.—A human skull was found by state highway workers at Refugio, 25 miles north of here, who dug up the complete skeleton after investigation.

The bones indicate that the skeleton was either of a small man or an ordinary sized woman. The skull was found two feet underground.

Sheriff Ross believes the discovery may disclose a murder. The soil contains much alkali which would result in quick destruction of the body, but a search is being made for parts of the clothing.

Vollmer Opens War On Gambling Rings

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Underworld gambling leaders were ordered to leave the city or go to jail today by Chief of Police Vollmer as the first step in a war on the "big six" gambling ring.

The heads of the underworld band, reputed to be worth over $2,000,000 are declared responsible for vice conditions here.

REVEALS HORRORS OF SEA DISASTER

very hot.

"After three hours we knew they were working on the boat as we could hear everything very plainly. I knocked on the hull as far forward as possible and Breault, as far aft as possible, so the rescuers would know there were two of us. Breault played with the hammer, to indicate we were in good shape. "The air pressure was very strong and after twenty hours we both had severe headaches. We did very little talking and moving around, as that would have excited the heart action."

Confident of Rescue
"We were confident we could hold out 48 hours and that a crane would raise us in that time. The first hoist was made 12 hours after the sinking. It failed but it set the boat on an even keel and we could move around better."

"When the hoist started that finally brought us to the top the bow was raised and the rush of air was terrific. The last 20 minutes were terrible."

"Then we heard the water splashing over the top and our comrades walking on deck and we knew we were up. Breault opened the hatch and the light was so bright I could not find my way up."

Brown looks none the worse for his experience and expressed deep gratitude to the Panama Canal diver Sheppard Sheves, who worked continuously until the boat was raised and was in worse condition at the end than the imprisoned sailors.

Charles R. Butler of New Haven, Conn., chief machinist's mate, who went down with the submarine, had a miraculous escape after he had been submerged eight hours.

"I was at the throttle when the crash came," he said. "I was knocked down and tried to get up three times but was knocked over by water coming in the hatch. Finally I climbed out of the way of the rush of water which formed a whirlpool as it came down the engine room hatch. I pulled myself into an air pocket along-side the hatchway, took off all my clothes and then stuck my foot in to the hatchway to see if the rush of water had stopped."

"It was, so I swung out and was carried up 12 feet when my head struck the hatch cover, which was partly closed. The blow nearly knocked me senseless but with all my strength I opened the hatch."

"A rush of air shot me through 35 feet of water. The force of the air raised me out of the water until only my feet touched. I yelled for help and was immediately picked up."

Hero of Disaster
Breault was suffering from shock after his rescue. He was rushed to the navy hospital at Coscozolo and there placed in the submarine room under pressure which has been gradually relieved until it is normal.

Breault, a torpedo man, was the hero of the sinking. He was on deck when the submarine was struck. Instead of saving himself, he ran along the grating, jumped into a manhole and slammed the hatch shut from the side, attempting to save the boat and those who were below decks. It was an act of pure heroism as he might easily have jumped to safety.

Metzler and Smith, two victims of the accident, were buried yesterday afternoon at Mount Hope. The submarine at that time was still held up by a crane. It may be abandoned as it was scheduled to go out of commission.

Death Notices

A Word of Comfort
The end of life on earth is like sunset on the plains. Earth and sky are mingled; the clouds look like islands in a sea; everything takes on an unsuspected beauty. While we walk the earth we are so close to the part of life which is nearest that the glorious distances and the thrilling perspectives escape us. Death opens our eyes and we see all as a process toward perfection for all that is worth preserving.

HICK—In Santa Ana, October 30, Mrs. J. Hick of Huntington Beach, wife of A. J. Hick.
Services will be held from the Winkler Mission Funeral home. Notice of time will be given later.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank our many friends who were so kind and helpful and sympathizing during our recent bereavement, also for their beautiful floral offerings.

Asserted Dance Hall

Offender Put In Jail

G. C. Wetherstrom of Huntington Beach had a "date" with Acting City Recorder Leo Goepfer for this afternoon. He was arrested at a dance hall in Santa Ana last night and booked on a drunk charge by Patrolman Krauchi and Deputy Sheriff Ed McClellan. The officers alleged Wetherstrom was under the influence of intoxicating liquor and said he had a bottle in his possession when arrested. The prisoner was creating a disturbance in the dance hall, according to Krauchi.

Barnard or H. H. Williams of Costa Mesa, the committee in charge of the banquet. The banquet is to be held in the Costa Mesa club house.

A round table discussion of "The Law of Duty" was today announced as the principal item of interest for tomorrow's program at the Frances E. Willard Junior High School P-T. A. The session will be at Frances Willard school at 3 p. m.

Predictions that the building permits issued during October would pass the $400,000 mark failed to materialize. When the office of Building Inspector W. S. Decker closed at noon today the total was $395,228, the daily total was $6625 and the yearly total was $4,665,376. The largest permit issued during the morning was to Rogers and Gubie, 211 East Tenth street for the erection of a five-room frame and stucco residence and garage at 1345 Cypress avenue. The building will cost $4000.

Seventy-five students of the evening school for foreign born, which meets at the Frances Willard junior high school here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, last night heard District Attorney A. P. Nelson explain California's traffic laws. Nelson's words were interpreted in Spanish by Charles Carrillo, county court interpreter. The school is conducted under the direction of Mrs. Lenore Panunzio, supervisor of Americanization work in Santa Ana.

The board of supervisors of Orange county has applied to the railroad commission for authority to establish a crossing at grade over the tracks of Southern Pacific company at Fairhaven avenue here.

Trace Record of Man

Jailed In Rum Case

Sentenced at Fullerton yesterday by Justice of the Peace C. D. French to thirty days in the county jail for alleged transportation of liquor, L. C. Ines, 23, was in the county jail here today, where officers were conducting investigations into his record.

According to Joe Irvine, deputy county jailer, Ines was wanted New ork for embezzlement. It was said that a finger print record revealed that he had a record in New York.

C. Pangilo, convicted with Ines on the same charge, was sentenced to fifty days in the county jail.

MOTHER TO FORGIVE

MISSING DAUGHTER

Lillian Manhart, if you are in Santa Ana your mother wants you to come home. "Tell her all will be forgiven and she will be received with open arms," was the word given to police here today by Mrs. Gertrude Manhart, 4807 South Wall street, Los Angeles, mother of the girl. Lillian ran away from home after a misunderstanding with her mother several days ago, it was learned.

Yesterday the mother received a letter from her daughter in which the girl said that she was in Santa Ana and was all right. She did not give her address, but said she was living with an elderly woman here.

The mother said it was possible that the girl was working in a Santa Ana restaurant as she was employed at one time as waitress in Los Angeles. She was described as 17 years old; height, 5 feet 4 inches; weight, 115 pounds. Lillian is a blonde with blue eyes and has bobbed hair.

ENTERTAINS FOR PARISH

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Borchard of Greenville are entertaining tomorrow evening for the benefit of St. Ann's parish, the congregation and friends of the church having received invitations to attend.

POWELL WAR ON

MASHERS NETS

TWO MEN

Two asserted "mashers" were booked to appear in Acting City Recorder Leo Goepfer's court here this afternoon to answer charges of disturbing the peace. They were arrested last night by Patrolman O'Brien. The men gave their names and addresses as G. A. Kelley, 645 North Birch street, age 29, and Robert Law, 320 West Sixth street, age 28.

According to O'Brien, Law accosted two young women as they were walking along the street. He asked the women if they had time to go and have a drink, but when the women quickened their pace, according to O'Brien, Kelley asked "What is your hurry?"

The suspects were locked in the county jail, pending their hearing this afternoon.

The arrest of these two men marked the third day of a drive here on "street mashers" started by City Marshal Claude Rogers. On Sunday eight boys, ranging in age from 15 to 19 years, were arrested in front of a local theater, where they were seated in an automobile and making remarks to girls and women passing by, it was asserted.

"Would-be mashers might tactfully observe that I intend breaking up the practice of accosting women on the streets of this city," Rogers declared today. "I have instructed my patrolmen to arrest every man guilty of such offense. The offenders will be booked on charges of disturbing the peace, and I hope no leniency will be shown them."

MOTHER'S WILL

DISINHERITING

4, ATTACKED

Alleging their aged mother was under "undue influence" when she made her last will, cutting from them a share of the family estate, four of her children today had aligned themselves against a brother and a sister in court action here to block administration of the estate.

Under terms of the will of Mrs. Adeline Newman of Seal Beach, who died September 11, last, a daughter, Mrs. Mary Davis of El Monte, and a son, Daniel Newman of Seal Beach, were named as beneficiaries. Petition to probate the will was filed in the superior court here October 5 and Mrs. Davis, subsequently, was named administratrix.

Contest proceedings filed in the same court last yesterday by Julia Smith and Adeline Dodson, disinherited daughters of the aged woman, ask that the probate be revoked and letters of administration transferred to the Title and Trust Insurance company of Los Angeles.

Contestants pointed out in their action that the mother, who was aged 82 at death, had been placed in charge of two beneficiaries. They charged irregularities of influence when the property instrument was signed.

Two children disinherited under the will and who were understood to be backing their sisters in the will contest, were Bernard and John Newman, both of Seal Beach.

5-Year-Old Son Gets

Blame for $200 Fire

Started By Matches

Children playing with matches were responsible for the fire which yesterday afternoon destroyed the garage at the home of S. J. Mustol, music director at the high school, 501 East Wisteria street, according to a statement made today by Fire Chief John Luxembourg.

According to Luxembourg, property damage would approximate $200. The garage was used as a storehouse for a set of valuable tools and instruments owned by Mustol.

The 5-year-old son of Mustol, playing in the garage, set some papers on fire; the blaze spread to the walls of the frame building, totally destroying it. Luxembourg stated.

ASK BIDS FOR NEW

JUVENILE BUILDING

Indicating that the board of supervisors is completing final arrangements for providing the county with a modern juvenile home, J. M. Backs, county clerk, today was advertising for bids for construction of the home on Fruit street, the bids to be opened by the board November 27.

Plans and specifications prepared by Frederick H. Eley, architect, were approved yesterday by the board, with instructions to the clerk to call for bids following.

As approved, the plans and specifications are slightly modified from those submitted some time ago. Bids submitted to the board on the original plans were too high and all were rejected. It was expected that under the modified plans, the construction costs will come within figures the board deems necessary for erection of the first unit of the home.

D. A. R. TO HEAR CONSUL

The Santa Ana Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold a reception for Leonardo Leal, consul for Mexico in Los Angeles next Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, Main street, between Lyon street and Glen avenue, Tus.

You and Your Friends

Please Phone or Mail Items

Joe Melbergen, wife and son, residents of Enid, Oklahoma, and sojourning temporarily at Long Beach, were visitors in Santa Ana yesterday. Conducting a clothing and furnishing goods store at Enid for thirty years, Melbergen recently disposed of his business and now is looking for a home location in Southern California. He is a close personal friend of John Knox, of Knox and Stout, and visited Knox while in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Henney, former residents of Huron, S. D., were in the city yesterday visiting at the home of Mrs. Henney's uncle, George Huntington. The visitors may locate in Santa Ana.

Among Santa Anans who were planning to see "The Covered Wagon" at its final performance in Hollywood, were Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Annis and their houseguest, Mrs. J. H. Cornell of Mapleton, Minn., also Mr. and Mrs. Jack Larimer and Mrs. E. L. Beal. Mrs. Larimer and Mrs. Beal are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Annis.

Mrs. Cornell recently arrived for an extended visit with her sister-in-law, joining here, Mr. Annis's sister, Mrs. Iona Wallace also of Mapleton, who has been a guest in the Annis home at 605 Cypress street for some time and who is now visiting her daughters in Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. B. Roberts of the Padham apartments is spending a week or two in Los Angeles the guest of her son, C. E. Roberts.

T. B. Talbert, chairman of the board of supervisors, and Mrs. Talbert of Huntington Beach expect to leave Saturday for a trip to Honolulu. They will be absent two months. Their son will not accompany them, as he attends junior college.

Miss Beatrice Anderson will be a week-end guest at her home this week. Miss Anderson attends Southern Branch University of California in Los Angeles, and has not been home for some time as she has been assisting her sorority, the Chi Omega, to move into its new home, the first national branch to be established here. Miss Anderson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Anderson of Wellington avenue.

Miss Estelle Nilsson writes from San Francisco to a friend here that she has secured the position of assistant buyer in one of the department departments of the White House, one of the largest department stores in the northern city. She states that she is much interested in her new work.

The Misses Wilma and Edith Plavan, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Plavan of South Birch street, writes home that they have joined the Chi Omega sorority at Oregon agricultural college, where they are interested students.

Miss Ruth Rowland of the high school faculty, who has been quite seriously ill for the past month, has resumed her duties. Her work in the home economics department was carried on by Miss Rosa Clausen, a former teacher in that class. Miss Eva Johnson, another member of the faculty, is still very ill in a Los Angeles sanatorium, and although slowly convalescing probably will be able to return to school this semester. Mrs. T. B. Kelly of the English department is taking her place.

Miss Augusta Alexander, who makes her home with her sister, Mrs. John L. Dwyer, 102 Spurgeon street, returned home last Saturday from Pincastle, Ohio, her old home, where she has been visiting for the past five months.

Mrs. Rose Doyle of Hollywood is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Murphy on Minter street.

W. J. Conner, brother of Mrs. R. R. Aitken of East Fifth street, left today for Santa Susana, where he has established a barber business.

P. J. Gillespie, who came here recently from Helena, Montana, has been joined by his wife, two daughters and a son. They are located at 1212 Lacy street. The family made the trip from Montana in an automobile coming by way of Spokane. They were three weeks on the way.

Mrs. Alvis F. Brown and daughter Naomi, are here from Whittier for a visit with Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Ella Neylon of 1212 Lacy street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gustlin of Edgewood Road have returned from a few days' visit in Los Angeles.

Mrs. M. Kramer arrived at home today after a very delightful three months' visit with relatives and friends in her old home in Illinois. She passed a portion of the time in the state of Missouri. Mrs. William Maag and Miss Clara Kramer went to Los Angeles to meet their mother.

Garage Firm Partner

Asks for Dissolution

Claiming inability to settle amicably partnership claims, between themselves, H. C. Collins, partner in a garage operating at 315 West Fifth street, this city, today had brought legal proceedings to the superior court here, asking the latter to dissolve the firm.

A restraining order to prohibit A. Hardin, other partner, from disposing of asserted partnership assets, also was asked.

Collins, whose complaint was filed late yesterday through Attorneys Kaufman and Martell, claimed a disagreement in the firm and set forth that Hardin had possession of company books. The complaint placed assets at $4500.

YOUNG FOLK FROLIC

Following adjournment of the Pacific conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, held in Los Angeles, the Rev. A. T. O'Rear, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, this city, today was visiting Santa Ana friends before returning to his home in the bay cities district.

The Rev. Mr. O'Rear, who left Santa Ana for Oakland three years ago, has just been returned to his post by the Los Angeles conference. He will resume his duties as pastor of the Pioneer Memorial church, Oakland, in the near future.

While in Santa Ana, the Rev. Mr. O'Rear will be the guest of Mrs. P. H. Covington of South Birch street.

ECHO OF CLASH ON ROYER WILL HEARD

The late Julien O. Royer, around whose estate have revolved several suits, did not own, of his own right, any stock in the Anaheim Investment company, according to statements made by the company in an answer filed in the superior court here today to the suit of Marie Feraud, his nurse, to recover from the estate portions she alleged were willed to her by him.

The company also denies that the plaintiff, in her own right, owned any of the company's stock.

Following Royer's death, a will was filed by Miss Feraud, in which the major portion of the $250,000 estate of Royer was bequeathed to her. Following trial in the superior court here a jury returned a verdict that Miss Feraud exercised undue influence over Royer when he wrote the will, and it was set aside.

FRANKLIN PRINTERS OF SOUTH IN FROLIC

More than 100 printers, members of the Southern California Franklin Printers' association, and their wives gathered last night at St. Ann's Inn for a Halloween dinner and meeting of the association. Menus were printed in Halloween colors and table decorations carried out the effect.

Paper caps and horns were distributed and the dining room of the Inn reverberated with the raucous roar of the horns.

The program, under the direction of James Foley, noted writer and humorist, who acted as toastmaster, sparkled with wit. Members of the association, called on to contribute bits to the entertainment, were received with salvo after salvo of applause.

The principal speaker of the evening was Bert Butterworth, who talked on the subject of printed matter as an advertising medium. This was the same talk delivered a short time ago by Butterworth before the Milwaukee Ad club, he indicated.

Association With Other Men Laid To Woman In Divorce

Alleging in his complaint that his wife, Thelma, had "openly and notoriously associated with other men" until her actions had become gossip, C. A. Wood today had filed suit in supreme court here against his wife for divorce.

According to the complaint, the couple married at Athens, Texas, April 16, 1911, and separated at Placentia on the same day of the month in 1923. By agreement, daughters of the couple, Clara, who is 11 years old, and Myrtle, who is 9 years of age, have been placed in the custody of Mrs. Wood's mother, Mrs. Ella Penn, of Santa Ana.

The husband charges in his complaint that when he took his wife to task for association with a certain man, she told him she loved that man better than anyone else in the world and in November of last year left her home.

State Furniture Men Honor Local Dealer

J. C. Horton, prominent Santa Ana business man, was elected a director of the Retail Furniture Dealers of California at the annual convention held in Sacramento, according to advices received here today.

GIRL INJURED WHEN CAR IS OVERTURNED

Santa Dominguez, 13-year-old Mexican girl, living at 33 Truxel street, Fullerton, was in the county hospital today with a fractured right leg. Her injuries were due to an automobile accident yesterday on North Main street when the automobile in which she was riding was forced into a ditch and turned over. With her at the time of the accident was K. Mata, of the same address.

According to a report of the accident, made to the Santa Ana police, by R. W. Angel, Brea, the car in which the girl was a passenger was forced into a ditch by an automobile driven by a Mexican. Angel declared that the Mexican was driving at an excessive speed.

Court Upholds Ejection of Laundry Woman

Harold H. Snow, foreman of the Santa Ana Laundry, today was declared not guilty of battery, by Justice of the Peace J. B. Cox, who heard charges that Snow recently ejected Marie Trujillo from the laundry with force, following her discharge as a member of the force.

After hearing the testimony, the justice said that the foreman was justified in using force to eject the complaining employee from the plant.

Dry Officers Arrest Eighteen Men In Raid

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Prohibition agents raided Caesar's Grill, 129 Columbus avenue, and reported finding whisky on the bar and full bottles behind it. A. Bozetti and John Phillip were arrested.

The federal agents then raided the Entello hotel, 901 Columbus avenue, and arrested Bervino Alforo, Al Tosco Restaurant at 524 Union street, where under-cover agents had obtained liquors, was next visited, and Peter Luchini, proprietor, and George Garbini were arrested. The Liberty Cafe at 765 Sansome street also was raided and Carlos and Joe Rosellini were arrested as proprietors. Several other lesser restaurants were visited by the agents and eighteen men were arrested for Volstead violations.

Auto Hurls Two Girls Through Store Window

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 31.—Two girls, looking at a display in a shoe store window at Broadway and Thirty-fourth street, Bayonne, were hurled through a plate-glass window into the store when an automobile went over the curbing and struck them.

Irving Kossover, driver, was arrested.

Gildersleeve Still Is Poet, Although 92

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31.—Dr. Basil L. Gildersleeve, poet and honorary professor of Greek at Johns Hopkins university, was 92 recently.

"I still write poetry for my own satisfaction, though not for publication," he said. "Now and then some of my verse finds its way into print."

A chicken dinner at noon will delight the inner man and in the afternoon an interesting program will be presented. The six communities represented in the federation are Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, Huntington Beach, Whittier and Orange.

The hostess group of Anaheim was the latest one to enter the federation and already boasts sixty-eight members.

Fraternal Brotherhood

About thirty members in addition to the orchestra of Santa Ana Lodge Fraternal Brotherhood attended the big Halloween social and dance at Olinda last night. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion and supper was served after the dance to about one hundred members and friends.

Tomorrow night Santa Ana lodge will give their Halloween social and dance at M. W. A. hall, Fourth and Bush street, for members and friends.

Police today were seeking Mrs. Guadalupe Gomez, of Garden Grove who is said to have left her home last night. The only description of the girl the police were able to obtain was that she is 17 years old, has black hair, and a mole on her neck.

According to the report to police the girl was wearing a long black cloak and was bare-headed when she disappeared.

Most eminent men have had talented mothers.

Wife Wins Divorce From S. F. Candy Man

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Cora R. Kratz, 2806 Vallejo street, was granted a divorce from F. W. Kratz, proprietor of an exclusive candy shop on Post street, by Superior Judge Cabanis. Mrs. Kratz testified that her husband had ceased to care for her, that he had stated in the presence of her stepson, Kenneth Kratz, that he was tired of her and that he had subjected her to great mental cruelty. Kenneth Kratz, the son of the defendant, corroborated Mrs. Kratz's statement. Judge Cabanis awarded her $110 a month alimony. Kratz did not appear in court and no mention was made in the suit of a sensational raid made by the wife on an apartment where it is alleged Kratz was found with another woman.

Abandoned Auto Of Bandits Is Located

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The automobile of George Stickle, 762 Guerrero street, who was forced to assist three highwaymen in their night's foray, was found abandoned at Twentieth and church streets.

Stickle, accompanied by Miss M. E. Ryle, 112 Palm avenue, was stopped at Fulton street and Park avenue and forced at the point of pistols to drive the three bandits to the Twin Peaks boulevard, where the bandits waylaid another machine in which were riding Charles Tastell, 333 Seventeenth street, and Miss Florence Belly, 523 Eighth avenue. The latter couple were forced by the bandits to leave their automobile and get into Stickle's car. The four victims were then driven to St. Francis Wood, where their valuables were taken and the bandits escaped in Stickle's car.

Buy EVERY Time From Independent Gasoline Stations

Your money does so much more good when it is spent at home. If you could get any better service, or better products, elsewhere for the same prices, then you would be entirely justified. But when you can get the personal interest and attention of gasoline station OWNERS who are your fellow citizens—when you can get merchandise that is just as good or better—and when you have a CHOICE of several good products, instead of ONE ONLY—then, WHY SHOULD YOU ALLOW YOUR MONEY TO GET AWAY FROM SANTA ANA, AWAY FROM THE STATE AND EVEN THE COUNTRY?

Why should you have to take whatever is handed you at a gasoline station without some freedom of choice?

It's a COMPLETE service that the Independents want to get across to you. Your patronage will make that possible.

Clubwomen

Federation President Is Honor Guest at Pleasant Tea

One of the pleasant features of the visit to Ebell clubdom of Mrs. Kenneth J. Oliver of Brawley, president of the southern district, California Federation of Women's Clubs, the informal tea with which Mrs. W. L. Deimling called together a little group of Ebell and federation officials following Monday's session of the club at the Yost theater.

The congenial little group was asked to James' where Mrs. Deimling presided graciously as hostess and conversation revolved around plans for the approaching district federation and more remote—but thrilling—it is interest to club-women generally, the biennial to convene in Los Angeles in June, 1924.

Asked to greet Mrs. Oliver, who had so pleasantly impressed the club upon her first Santa Ana visit two years ago at the time of the southern district convention here and again Monday by her clear and concise outline of the program for the convention at Riverside, No. 13 to 15, were members of Ebell's board of directors including the president, Mrs. Angus J. Crookshank, Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks, Mrs. N. A. Beals and Mrs. J. W. McCormac. Mrs. John Clarkson, district chairman of Americanization, Mrs. J. K. McDonald of Huntington Beach, district chairman of education and Mrs. T. B. Talbert, also of Huntington Beach, completed the little group.

Delightful Party Honors Birthday

One of the most unique affairs of the autumn was the birthday party arranged in honor of Mrs. Sol Gonzalez at the Rokwell studio. Entertainment was furnished by a number of talented people, including Miss Melba Stanton of Long Beach, noted for her interpretation of Spanish dances, also a reading by Miss Geraldine Rodriguez.

Following the program a typical Spanish orchestra rendered the music for the evening.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dockerty, Mr. and Mrs. Oberlin Rodriguez, Mr. and Mrs. Ruiz of Tustin, Mr. and Mrs. Ma-dridd, Mr. and Mrs. Persa, the Misses Ruth Frothingham, Josephine Gonzalez of Pasadena, Helen and Patricia Flores of El Paso, Texas, Luisa and Ida Yorba, formerly with the Mission Play, Melba Stanton, Inez Potter, Lola and Fay Milton, Anita Ortiz, Helen and Onofre Madrid, Geraldine Salazar of Pasadena, Delfina Lopez and Faustinita Lucero.

Messrs. Isidoro Lawrence of El Paso, Texas, Dick and Andy Nicochea, Ernest and Henry Delgado, Jesus and Fidel Garcia, Gil Barrios, Babe Ortiz, Sidney Yorba of San Gabriel, Manuel Rueda and many others.

New Church Members Are Reception Guests

Extending a pleasant and friendly greeting, members of the Aid society of the First Presbyterian church, last night entertained in honor of 110 new members received into the church at July and October communion services.

Mrs. G. B. Darnell, Aid society president, was aided by the leaders of the four sections in carrying out plans while the interesting program was directed by Mrs. Frank Preston.

Guests gathered in the parlors, beautiful with clusters of chrysanthemums, listened with pleasure to violin numbers by ten-year-old Miss Emalea Richards, pupil of Elwood Bear who was accompanied by Miss De Etta Miller at the piano; to a delightful vocal group by Miss Louise Montgomery and an equally pleasing group of readings by Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips.

Adding to the pleasure of the social hour was the serving of pumpkin pie and coffee.

Grace Rowley Circle

The usual monthly dinner and program of the Grace Rowley circle will be at the First Presbyterian church parlors tomorrow night at 6 o'clock.

The little group of high school girls comprising the circle, meet and prepare their own dinner once each month and conduct their own book-review in studying missions. Tomorrow night they will hear Miss Mary Grey review a chapter of "Japan on the Upward Trail" by William Axling.

Philathea Class

The Philathea class and their guests held a Halloween party at the country home of Miss Pearl Reid on West Fifth street recently. There were twenty-four guests who enjoyed the jolly games of apple ducking and fortune telling. Out of door games were played in the spacious yard, the scene being made ghostlike by the pale moon and weird witches and goblin costumes. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Former Santa Ana In Interesting Survey of United States

Mr. and Mrs. George I. Tedford of Los Angeles are visiting at the home of Mrs. Tedford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Crane, of 602 Cypress avenue. Mrs. Tedford was formerly Miss Inez Crane of Santa Ana.

The Tedfords have just returned from a 26,000 mile motor tour of the continent, which extended through forty states. They left Los Angeles many months ago by the central route, motoring at leisure and taking in everything of interest. Their line of travel included Salt Lake City, Denver, Kansas City, and into Iowa, where they visited Albia, the old home and birthplace of Mrs. Tedford. While there, they decided to extend their trip on through the south, and spend the winter in Florida, so left for St. Louis, Mo. Here, finding road conditions very poor, they turned north into Terra Haute, Indiana, where they took up the Dixie highway, south, through Louisville, Ky., Nashville, Tenn., Anniston, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., making extensive stops in each city.

Four months were spent in Florida, much of it in St. Petersburg and Tampa, on the Gulf of Mexico and Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Daytona and Miami on the east coast. While at Miami, a delightful trip was taken by water to Key West and Havana, Cuba.

In the spring they traveled north, along the Atlantic coast, sight-seeing through North and South Carolina, Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C., where they spent several weeks.

One much enjoyed trip was up the Potomac river, to Mt. Vernon, to visit the home and tomb of George Washington, also Arlington cemetery, where the unknown soldier is buried, and the old home of General Lee.

From there they continued north, through Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia, Penn., Atlantic City, N. J., New York City, Hartford and New Haven, Conn., Boston, Mass., Newburyport, N. H., to Portland, Maine, returning to New York City by way of Newport and Narragansett Pier.

After spending three weeks in New York City, they followed the Hudson river, motoring through the Catskill and Adirondack mountains, to Lake Champlain, crossing the St. Lawrence river into Montreal, Canada. From there they followed along the St. Lawrence river to Alexandria Bay, N. Y., taking a pleasure trip all around and through the Thousand Islands.

They continued on the Great Lakes, taking in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The National Trail was then followed through the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming, through the Cody entrance into Yellowstone park, where they spent two weeks, leaving by the Gardiner or Northern Entrance.

The travelers then crossed Montana, Idaho and Washington, into Seattle where they visited Mr. Tedford's brother, Chas. L. Tedford and family. On their way south they spent ten days in San Francisco, visiting Mr. Tedford's sister, and husband, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Young. They arrived in Los Angeles without an accident of any consequence to mar the pleasures of the entire trip, and are still fully convinced that there is no place like Southern California.

Choral Union Folk Plan Unique Picnic

In accordance with their policy of drawing closer the bonds between different sections of the county, members of the Orange County Choral Union are planning a picnic supper and rehearsal at the new city auditorium, Huntington Beach, Friday night, November 2.

Members having no means of reaching the beach city will find conveyance awaiting them at the junior high school from whence the crowd will take its departure at 6:15 o'clock. Each one will take a basket lunch and coffee will be furnished by the general committee.

Arriving at the new auditorium, the musical folk will give their first attention to the supper which will be followed by a lively rehearsal of the opera "Robin Hood" which is scheduled for an early winter offering. As honored guests at both supper and rehearsal will be a group of members of the chamber of commerce of the beach city.

The evening will end in dancing and stunts which talented fun-makers of the organization will present.

Bridge Club Meets In Hallowe'en Session At Gowen Home

Noted among her friends for her originality and cleverness in entertaining, Mrs. J. E. Gowen yesterday presented a luncheon for the members of a friendly little bridge club to which she has long belonged, was able to offer new angles to the familiar Hallowe'en motif.

The Gowen home at 928 Spurgeon street, was vividly decorated with the seasonal colors, light falling from softly shaded chandeliers upon four tables arranged in the long living-room where was served a luncheon of delectable dishes. Yellow tapers centered each table while tiny ones glowed at each place marked as well by Hallowe'en name cards and favors of wee lanterns filled with nuts. Score cards for bridge which followed were typical of the All Saints' festival and even pencils bore tiny flying witches.

Those gathered for the event included Mesdames A. J. Crookshank, C. E. Lamme, Edward M. Nealley, F. W. Slabaugh, C. A. Vance, A. M. Gardner, E. E. Keoch, J. E. Liebig, S. M. Davis, Terry Stephenson, J. E. Paul, Roy Hall, William Otis, J. P. Gaumgartner, Miss Minnie Childs, and the hostess, Mrs. Gowen.

High School Group In Hallowe'en Frolic

One of the charming young hostesses at the Hallowe'en season was Miss Dorothy Clarkson whose home on Minter street was a recent rendezvous of a lively troop of over forty high school friends.

The house was festooned with yellow and black while all the favorite Hallowe'en symbols were much in evidence from the grinning Jack-o'-lanterns surmounting the porch posts to the black cats, owls, bats and corn shocks dominating the room decorations.

Garbs in yama-yama costume, Miss Clarkson greeted her guests all of whom were cleverly disguised. A succession of appropriate games offered entertainment and at the supper hour, all were seated at small tables whose yellow centerpiece concealed appropriate favors and bore a yellow taper. Ice cream in brown and yellow was served with crescent shaped cakes and other dainties.

Characters assumed by the disguised guests were exceedingly interesting, bandits, Spanish cavaliers, gypsies and kindred folk being featured. Miss Evelyn Metzger was a charming queen of hearts while as a languid harem favorite, Miss Kate Benton scored a success, as did Miss Elizabeth Beall in airy Pierrot garb with quantities of balloons.

An interesting feature was the presence of a Spanish gypsy, Miss Thurza Van Nest, who told fortunes when her palm was properly crossed with silver.

The young hostess was assisted in carrying out her interesting evening by her mother, Mrs. John Clarkson, and by Mrs. J. E. Gowen and Mrs. Charles Spicer.

Delphian Circle

Sectional sessions of the Delphian circle will be held Friday morning at the homes of the different section hostesses. In addition to the usual program, it is expected that a topic of interest will be the luncheon to be presented November 23 at the Biltmore in Los Angeles when all Delphian chapters of Southern California are expected to be represented.

The luncheon is scheduled for 12:30 o'clock and Santa Ana members may obtain tickets through Miss Lula Minter.

Turkey Dinner Given To Honor Trustees Of Local Church

Expressive of the rapidly approaching Thanksgiving season was a delightful little dinner staged last night at St. Ann's Inn when Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lasby entertained a group of friends.

"America's national bird," a luscious, roasted turkey, was accompanied by appropriate dishes of epicurean members of the board of trustees of the First Methodist church, gathered to greet their pastor and his wife, the Rev. Will A. Betts and Mrs. Betts, also the assistant pastor, James E. Hughes.

The private dining-room at the Inn was the scene of Mr. and Mrs. Lasby's hospitality and was adorned with beautiful chrysanthemums ranging from white to deep yellow.

Seated at the attractively adorned table were the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Lasby, the Rev. Mr. Betts and Mrs. Betts, James E. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wiseman, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Burns and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Theal.

With the exception of the pastors and Mr. Theal, the men of the party formed the board of trustees, while Mr. Theal is superintendent of the Sunday school.

Following the dinner, all present adjourned to the home of their hosts at 315 East Seventeenth street where a pleasant social evening was spent.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Isabel Anderson, directing secretary of the Junior College Y. W. C. A., will leave tomorrow night for Berkeley to attend the annual meeting of the Asilomar division student council of the national Y. W. C. A.

This council is composed of five members chosen from Arizona, California and the Hawaiian Islands to govern for the students associations between conventions. Miss Anderson and Mrs. Warren Olney, Jr. of Oakland are the two alumni members of the council.

With sessions occupying all of Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Y. W. C. A. but on the University of California campus the council will be in continuous session over the week-end deciding questions of policy and planning for the work of the students' associations for the rest of the year.

The local association with its ninety-five members, the Riverside Junior College association with its sixty members and almost equally large organizations in Fullerton Junior College, Chaffee Union as well as all other junior college associations in the state become the special responsibility of Miss Anderson on this council where she officially represents the junior colleges.

Calumpit Auxiliary

With Mrs. Myrtle Waffle of Villa Park as hostess, members of Calumpit Tea of the U. S. W. V. yesterday held a most interesting session at which final plans for their bazaar were discussed.

It was asked that all work be turned in Friday, November 2 when they meet with Mrs. Bertha Dixon, 1253 West Fourth street at 1 p. m. At this session all members are urged to be present and especially the committee chairmen who will receive work for their booths.

It was said that all donations for the fish-pot at the bazaar on November 7, and also the home-made candy, should be delivered the night before or very early that morning. Flowers also will be expected early and all members having flowers are asked to give freely.

The famous Calumpit silk quilt will be awarded the night of the bazaar when a program will be given after the dinner hour with the public urged to attend. In the afternoon, cards will be enjoyed with a small cover charge asked.

At the close of yesterday's spirited planning, Mrs. Waffle, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Adeline Hartzler, served tea and cake.

Calumpit auxiliary members present included Mesdames Edith Camp, Mary Cooper, Matilda Weise, Nellie Kenney, Nannie Reed, Bertha Dixon, Alice Gay, Jean Tantlinger, Hattie Rubens, Minerva Winter, Emma Wassum, Neeta Allen, Odella Markwalder, Anna Jones, Miss Violet Rubens, one new member, Mrs. Dena Isbell and three visitors, Mrs. Stella Dix, Mrs. Adeline Hartzler and Miss Augusta Cooper.

Hallowe'en Dinner For Out-of-Town Guests

Mrs. Frank Feighner of West Fourth street, charmingly entertained at a Hallowe'en dinner recently in honor of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Von Nocken of Alpena, Michigan, who are touring California. Those present from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Hursh Waters, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walkinshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dietrich of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber, Long Beach; Oliver Ross, Venice, and Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Kelsey of San Francisco.

Stitch and Chatter

Members of the Stitch and Chatter club were today anticipating a merry Hallowe'en party which they with their families will enjoy tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. A. R. Marshall, 1212 North Ross street.

Many are planning to don masquerade costume and the fun will be on at 7:30 o'clock.

ASK REHEARING OF 'BUBBLE' LAND CASE

Echoes of the Irvine "land bubble" case, involving Dr. W. R. Price and Ben McLendon, Los Angeles, were heard here today when it was announced in Los Angeles that 38 of the 230 persons who filed claims on the Irvine ranch property in Orange county, have asked for a rehearing in the case.

At the office of Register Valentine, in Los Angeles, it was intimated that if the course pursued in the original application is followed in this instance, requests for a rehearing and reopening of the case will be denied.

According to federal officers who have been investigating the activities of Dr. Price, former head of the School of Applied Christian Psychology, a number of the members of Dr. Price's cult decided to revive the case, following the indictment of Dr. Price by a federal grand jury on a charge of using the mails in an asserted scheme to defraud.

Washington authorities have steadfastly declined to countenance the claims filed by Price and his followers.

IMMIGRATION WILL BE DISCUSSED HERE

A resolution asking the United States government to limit European immigration to trained agricultural workers will be put before the California farmers and fruit growers' convention here December 6 and 7. Word of this proposed action has been received from G. H. Hecke, director of the state department of agriculture.

The convention, which is being directed by the state department of agriculture, will probably attract 1,000 California agriculturists.

According to announcement here today by A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, Director Hecke will be in Santa Ana next Tuesday, when a conference will be held, with all committeemen in attendance. At this time preliminary plans for the annual convention will be discussed.

Commissioner Brock today announced appointment of the following committeemen to work out plans for the December convention:

JAIL FATHER OF 7 IN BAD CHECK CASE

Following his arrest while engaged in fumigation work at Richfield yesterday afternoon, W. M. Gilmore of Fullerton today was held in the county jail here to answer to charges of issuing bad checks at Olive and at other points in the county, two years ago.

Circumstances surrounding the issuance of the bad checks and asserted subsequent efforts of Gilmore to repay funds secured by them probably would result in the accused being given probation when his case comes before the court, according to officers.

Herman Zabel, finger expert in the sheriff's office, said Gilmore cashed the checks two years ago, when his wife was ill. Later the family went to Missouri with his family. Returning to Fullerton five weeks ago, Gilmore, it was said, had been working constantly and had repaid $100 to different parties at Olive who cashed his alleged worthless checks.

Gilmore, who is 38 years old, is the father of seven children, it was said by officers.

APPROVE PLACENTIA SANITARY DISTRICT

Voters in the territory embraced in the Placentia sanitary district yesterday approved organization of the district, it was revealed here today by the filing with the county clerk of returns of the election. The returns disclosed that 210 voters cast favorable ballots, with 81 voting against the district.

Ole C. Christiansen was elected assessor for the district. Five directors, Warren M. Bradford, Ole Christiansen, William C. Cobar, Clarence E. Haiber and W. W. Krick, were chosen.

Residents of Placentia at one time discussed organization of a sanitary district for the purpose of joining with Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton and Orange in the project of the joint outfall to the sewer.

REDISTRICTING IS DISCUSSED AT MEETING IN POMONA

Farm Bureau Counties Would Be Bounded Over This Year

SECRETARY REPORTS

Power Rate Reduction Is Cited As Evidence of Benefits Derived

Plans for re-districting the farm bureau counties of the state were laid at a meeting of Region No. 1 at Pomona, according to A. M. Stanley, manager of the Orange county farm bureau.

"Representatives from most of the southern counties were in attendance at the meeting, said Stanley, and spent the morning on business that will probably be discussed at the coming state farm bureau meeting to be held at Berkeley, November 6 to 8 inclusive. "E. E. Campbell represented Orange county in the conference. In the afternoon the region met with representatives from Tulare county and discussed matters pertaining to general farm bureau policies.

"Particular interest was given to financing the public utilities department of the California farm bureau federation.

Need Funds
"It was the general opinion that this department was too important to be hampered by the lack of funds.

"It is now generally known that the work of this department is responsible for the recent reduction in electric power rates which will be applied in this section November 20.

"This organization represented the farmers and consumers interests before the railroad commission during the past two years and the rate reduction comes as a result of their work.

"The state federation has declared that $24,000 will be necessary to carry on the overhead expenses of the department.

Amount Allocated
"This amount has been allocated to the various farm bureau counties in proportion to their agricultural production and amount of power used within each county.

"The matter of raising the funds so allocated has been left to the various counties. Both Orange and Los Angeles counties are striving to build up a department to care for the local public utility work and to assist in raising the necessary funds for the state department."

Nimrods Pay Fines In Game Law Cases

Echoes of the drive being conducted by state game deputies and County Game Warden W. E. Adkinson in this county were heard here today in Justice J. B. Cox's court, where A. E. McDowell, Los Angeles, paid a fine of $25 for killing shore birds protected by law.

Walter C. Ong, Pasadena, paid the same amount as fine for a similar offense. Others who appeared were E. A. Corrigan, Long Beach and Charles Baumbach, Los Angeles, who paid $25 each for hunting more than a half hour before sunrise, and George Armstrong, Seal Beach, who was fined $10 for hunting without a license.

TREE PRUNING BIG FACTOR TO GROWERS

Now that the harvest is practically over, the attention of the grower is being directed to tree pruning. In order that the growers of Orange county may have an opportunity of getting the best information on the subject, a series of walnut pruning demonstrations has been arranged by the agricultural extension service to cover the principal walnut sections of the county.

The schedule announced by the farm advisor includes:
Anaheim, Tuesday, Nov. 6, 2 p. m.; Tustin, Nov. 7, at 10 a. m., at the home of A. J. Crookshank; San Juan Capistrano, Nov. 7, 2 p. m., home of H. H. Blee; West Orange, Nov. 8, 10 a. m., home of H. D. Witt; Flower and LaVeta streets; La Habra, Nov. 8 at 2 p. m.

The principles of plant growth and fruit production with reference to walnuts will be presented by a walnut specialist. Approved methods of pruning will be demonstrated and proper tools for this work will be featured.

ORANGE COUNTY COWS HOLD UP GOOD MARK

Association Is Second In State, Few Points Behind Ferndale

California leads the ten western states in the number of cow-testing associations and has made an excellent record in this connection, according to figures released here today by W. M. Cory, assistant county farm advisor.

"California has 21 associations," said Cory, "with Washington its closest rival, having eight associations, the 21 associations representing a total of 556 herds, testing 24,231 cows. The average pounds of butterfat produced per cow was 29.59 pounds, placing California third among the states in average production per cow.

"However, Utah, which was first with an average of 32.7 pounds of butterfat, tested but 95 cows, and Washington, with an average of 30.3 pounds, tested but 5,174 cows, indicating that California may well be proud of her dairy herds.

"The cows of Orange county compare very favorably with any of those in the state. Orange county stood second last month with an average of 33.3 pounds of butterfat per cow, with Ferndale association No. 1 leading by 3 points.

"Frank Borchard had the high producing cow in the association, producing 151.0 pounds of milk and 84.5 pounds of butterfat.

"In connection with the good showing of the cows in the association, which are headed by a purebred sire the dairy department has started a move to make Orange county a 100 per cent purebred sire county. It is understood that there are but a few dairies now with scrub bulls at their head, and with the elimination of these, Orange county could then boast of being the only county in the United States with 100 per cent purebred sires."

Gets Trip to Home In Indiana for Achievement

As the result of achievements during the past year as a representative of the Lincoln Life Insurance company, Guy J. Gilbert left here today with Mrs. Gilbert for Ft. Wayne, Ind. They are taking the trip as the guests of the company.

Ft. Wayne is the old home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert. They are to attend the dedication of what is declared to be the finest insurance building in the country, devoted entirely to the work of a single company. It is a four-story marble and granite structure. Dedication programs will take November 6, 7 and 8. Among the speakers will be Postmaster General New.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert expect to be away about a month.

Will Take Measures To Frustrate Frost Damage This Winter

Old Jack Frost will not come unheeded this year, if the agricultural extension service and farm bureau puts its orchard heating demonstrations over next week.

Farm Advisor Wahlberg announces a joint field meeting between the La Habra and Whittier Farm Bureau Centers Monday, November 5 at 2 p. m. at Leffingwell ranch, where various types of orchard heating devices will be demonstrated. The subject of frost fighting will be thoroughly discussed by specialists, the meeting will be devoted entirely to legitimate and scientific presentation of the problems.

ASKS $3000 IN ROW OVER LINE OF TREES

A row of gum trees between the orange groves of T. B. Elliott and A. W. Wilson Jr., growers residing near Olive, led to a lawsuit between the neighbors. It was shown today, with an action on file in the superior court here, where Elliott seeks removal of the offending trees and asks $3,000 damages.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Agnes Wilson-Smith were named defendants in the suit, which was filed through Attorney John A. Harvey.

In his complaint, Elliott asserts that the eucalyptus trees are seventy-five feet high and extend along the boundary line of Wilson's property, casting a perpetual shade over the first three rows of orange trees on Elliott's side. The roots of the trees extend into Elliott's soil, he alleges. This combination of alleged shadow and root encroachment, Elliott claims, has resulted in an inferior quality and size of fruit on the trees affected.

Another novel complaint is made by Elliott, who charges that the gum trees also act as a net for electric winds that occasionally sweep across that locality and that the harmful winds are thus thrown back upon Elliott's grove, instead of passing over unimpeded.

GARDEN GROVE WINS FROM DOWNEY TEAM

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—The Downey high school football team came to Garden Grove and was defeated, 20 to 6. In the first quarter the Downey second team was put against the Garden Grove boys. The Downey team was much heavier but were out-played by Garden Grove.

A pass from Russell to Crist resulted in the first touchdown and the goal was kicked. In the second quarter Downey put in their first team, but were not able to make their yards. A long end run by Crist accounted for the second touchdown. In the second half Russell ran 40 yards through a broken field for the third touchdown. Crist kicked goal.

In the fourth quarter a pass from Downey's quarter to a half-back accounted for their six points but they failed to kick the goal.

GOLDEN TIDE DUE TO FLOW HERE XMAS FROM BIG WALNUT CROP

Here are some of the workers at the plant of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers association, who will do their full share in bringing in $850,000 Christmas gift for growers and packing house executives here. Two hundred and fifty men and women are employed, with a payroll of $3,000 weekly. Fifteen hundred tons of walnuts will be shipped from the plant this year.

BEE MEN MEET IN SANTA ANA NOVEMBER 10

Saturday, November 10 at 1 p. m. will be the date of the annual fall meeting of the beekeepers' department of the Orange county farm bureau, according to Roy Bishop, chairman of the department. It is expected that a large following of the honey industry will be present both from Orange and San Bernardino county. The Beemen's club of the latter county has accepted an invitation from the local department to meet with them on the above date at the farm bureau headquarters, Santa Ana.

According to the department, a number of prominent speakers have been secured for the occasion.

William Atchley, of Upland, beekeeper and specialist, will speak on "Winter Management of the Apilary Under Present Conditions."

T. O. Andrews, bee inspector of Riverside county will discuss "Registration of Apiaries, An Important Protection to the Industry."

C. E. Lush, Orange, Report of State Honey Producers Meeting. Progress reports on the projects of the department will be submitted and officers for the ensuing year elected.

Manager Predicts Crop Will Bring In Eight Hundred Thousand

Speaking of Christmas gifts—Eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars is the golden tide that will flow into the purses of Orange county ranchers within the next few weeks as the result of the great walnut harvest, according to House Manager J. E. Gowen of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers association here today.

"With the local packing house scheduled to complete most of its annual work by November 15," said Gowen, "indications are that hundreds of thousands of dollars will be in circulation here within the next few weeks.

"It seems safe to predict that we will ship about 1500 tons of very fine walnuts from the Santa Ana plant this year. This means that Orange county ranchers and packing house executives will share in a Christmas gift of something like $850,000."

According to Gowen there are about 250 men and women now employed in the big East Fourth street plant. The weekly payroll amounts to about $3,000, with individual wages ranging from $16 for women, to $30 and $35 for men.

Although many of these employees will be dropped when the packing department closes, about November 15, 175 men and women will be retained to operate the cracking plant.

The cracking plant will run until mid-December, according to present plans. "We are now shipping four cars of fine walnuts daily," Gowen explained, "and will continue doing so until near the close of the season. With the walnuts going east earlier than last year, there will be plenty of the very best California walnuts on the markets for the holiday trade. Money for the growers and packers will be available here by the first of December. I think and this will mean that there will be an abundance of cash in circulation for the holidays here."

This year's walnut harvest, judged from a standpoint of quality is one of the finest we have had. The walnut meat is excellent in every particular.

'WATCH SKY,' WORD FROM AUTO DEALER

"The statement has been made," says a Santa Ana automobile dealer, "that on November 4, Saturn being in unusual conjunction with the earth, Jupiter's influence being on the wane, and the whole planetary system being in an extraordinary state after the recent total eclipse of the sun, there will be manifested a new and radically differing stellar phenomenon.

"It's not a comet—it's not a meteor."

"Following closely on the excitement occasioned by the sun's eclipse, the whole country receives this new promise with acute interest, particularly as its exact nature is not yet revealed.

"All that we hear is that it will be a marvelous sight—one never before duplicated. With these few hints as our only guide, surmise and guesswork are rife, and the day which shall actually solve the mystery is eagerly awaited.

Wife One Day; Wed For Money, She Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Hattie Dill, Gordon hotel, was granted a decree of annulment by Superior Judge Graham yesterday from Fred Charles Dill. She testified that her husband told her that he married her for her money only. Mrs. Dill said she was married May 12, 1923, and that Dill left her the following day. Meantime he had sold his grocery store, obtained $1750 from her on the pretense of buying another and then left the city, she declared.

FARM CENTERS TO CELEBRATE ART GIFT

J. A. Smiley, president of the Orange county farm bureau, today had virtually completed plans for the presentation of the beautiful painting, allotted by the seventh annual Orange county fair association to the West Orange, Villa Park and El Modena farm centers and the Orange community. This presentation will be made at the Orange union high school Friday, November 2, at 7:30 p. m., with many guests in attendance.

The program will be enlivened with musical selections by Percy Richards, as well as several numbers by the Orange high school orchestra. The presentation of the painting, "The Edge of the Desert," will be made by E. E. Campbell, secretary of the Orange county fair.

The response will be made by F. A. Henderson, principal of the high school. This will be followed by selections by the glee club, after which Mark Grimes, vice president of the Los Angeles county farm bureau, will deliver an address, "The Agricultural Crisis and Its Remedy."

District Attorney A. P. Nelson will give his interpretation of the new automobile laws.

"We will be glad to welcome every member of the respective farm centers," said President Smiley. "Come and bring a friend who is not a member of the farm bureau."

Seek Man for Theft Of Automobile Here

Charged with a misdemeanor in connection with an alleged embezzlement of an automobile valued at less than $200, J. E. Kennedy was wanted by the authorities here today, complaint against him having been sworn to by James C. Howard, La Habra automobile dealer.

Prosecution of Kennedy, it was pointed out today, comes under provisions of a new state law which raised the line between petit larceny and grand larceny from $50 to $200 and established the same distinction in embezzlement cases, these involving property valued at less than $200 being classed as misdemeanors, and cases involving larger sums or valuations being rated as felonies.

HUGE INCREASE IN NUMBER OF PERSIMMONS PLANTED IN YEAR

Nearly As Many In This State As In Whole Nation

VALUABLE OUTLINES

Fullerton Gathering Is Held Successful By County Advisor

A survey recently completed by the executive committee of the persimmon growers department indicates that the number of persimmon trees planted during the last three years almost equals that previously grown in the United States, according to H. W. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor.

Since 1920 about 400 acres of new plantings have been set out in Southern California, which brings the California planting up to a total equal to that of the United States. According to the 1920 agricultural census there was a total of 690 acres of persimmons in the southern and eastern states and 280 acres in California. Since 1920 the California plantings have been increased 400 acres, making a total of 680 acres for California.

According to the 1920 figures the tonnage shipped by persimmon growing states was as follows:

California 536 tons; Florida, 137 tons; Alabama, 30 tons; Texas, 20 tons. Other states contributing in a small measure to persimmon production are Virginia, Georgia, Mississippi.

High Standard Here

In light of the recent survey, the average production per tree in the United States is 50 pounds, while that of California is 75 pounds. In California, however, a higher standard of production is being maintained.

During the field trip conducted by the persimmon department last Saturday at Fullerton yields of 500 or 600 pounds per tree were observed on trees upwards of twenty years old.

The principal variety grown in California at the present time is the Hachiya, while that of Florida, the chief competitor, is the Tananashi variety. Throughout the southern states the large portion of the persimmon plantings is interplanted with pecans.

In California the principal producing sections are Placer, Orange and Los Angeles counties.

The Florida fruit is generally off the market by September, which offers California access to the later holiday trade. Most of the persimmon harvest in California begins about the middle of September and lasts through November.

Feature Table Uses

"An interesting feature in which the persimmon fruit was featured in several ways," said Wahlberg. "The persimmon ice cream and salad which were served were particularly good. The department has collected a number of persimmon recipes which have been proven out and offer them to the housewife for trial. These may be obtained by writing to the farm advisors' office, Santa Ana.

"It is conceded that too few consumers really appreciate the value of the persimmon as a desirable fruit. It can be prepared in numerous ways. Its high colors are particularly valuable for decorative purposes. Possibly one reason that it has not been more popular with the housewife is that she has understood too little its uses and condition of ripeness before using.

"It must be remembered that the persimmon must be thoroughly ripe and quite soft before it can be used on the table. If used before thoroughly ripe it is too astringent."

If you care for glass pieces we invite you to see our selection. We are showing Fenton Art Glass, The Rainbow glass, Westmoreland, and a beautiful new line of Bohemian amethyst and orange pieces that are the very latest. Remember we show the new things first in Santa Ana and the prices are consistently low from the very first. Goff's means the best of the latest with a wide selection to choose from.

Chairs Play Big Part in Decoration of Home From Utility, Comfort Angles

One of the articles of modern furniture that plays an important part in raising the standard of home fitness, but whose decorative value is often underestimated, and, many times, not fully considered, is the chair.

No part of the home furnishings is used more than the chair, be it a rocker, an easy chair, occasional chair, bedroom chair or dining chair. From the time you arise in the morning, put on your shoes, enjoy your morning repast, read the morning paper, return from work to enjoy brief rest on the front porch or in the living room or the sun room, partake of your dinner, attend the theater or entertain friends, the chair is associated with you almost constantly.

In furnishing their homes many persons unconsciously give scant consideration to the chair for the comforts and decorative joys it will bring. To them a chair is a necessary part of the room only to sit on, the same as they believe a dining table is merely made to eat from. The historic romance, the traditions, the beauties of the members of the great chair family are lost because the home owners' education concerning chairs has been neglected through no one's fault but their own.

There is nothing more pleasing and attractive than a tall, formal chair, of the Renaissance type, stately and dignified, usually found in large rooms of the more pretentious homes. It is prized for its decorative value, its upholstery increasing its merit.

What would a console table and mirror be without the two side chairs to increase the attraction and emphasize the decorative worth of the pieces?

The occasional chair, high-backed and offering comfort, performs a similar decorative service when it graces the fireplace grouping or enhances a wall space in the living room. So, too, the small Roman chair.

Chairs a Part of Decorations

The upholstered easy chair, purchased principally because of the comforts it will bring, nestles into a grouping of furniture where it helps accentuate the decorative charm of the pieces.

Even the boudoir chair, the bedroom slipper chair or rocker have a grace and dignity that are in accord with the environment of repose and relaxation produced by the other furnishings.

There is no piece of furniture that has the same decorative qualities that could be substituted for the chair. For instance, the delightful types of the Windsor chair. It has a prepossessing charm, an individuality and distinction that is a delight in homes where good taste and refinement are encouraged. The wing chairs, cane-back and seat or upholstered, also have unusual decorative charm.

What would a breakfast-room suite be without its pretty chairs? Or a sun room where the chairs, pleasing in design and prettily decorated, beautify the suite?

Wicker chairs upholstered with cretonne by their harmonious color combinations make any home brighter and more lovable and livable.

In the sun room, on the porch, the lawn or in the garden the chair proves its decorative worth. The graceful and comfortable fan-back and the hourglass chairs that are now produced in reed, willow and rattan, have come to be indispensable for sun room, porch or garden where enhancing decorative results are sought.

Twentieth century artistry of design and skill in craftsmanship has brought the chair to its highest degree of perfection which represents the utmost in decorative beauty, comfort and service.

In cottage or mansion, apartment or more pretentious home the chair is monarch of the realms of individual charm following the lead of its ancestors that served kings and queens, but, more democratically now serving all the people instead of those whose heads wear the crown.

NEW MINISTER IS ASSIGNED TALBERT

TALBERT, Oct. 31.—Rev. S. C. Beckman, who has had charge of the circuit consisting of Talbert, Greenville and Bolsa churches of the Methodist Church South, was transferred at the recent conference to a church near Sacramento.

Rev. A. M. Gardner will be the new pastor here. Rev. Gardner was here this week meeting members of his congregation. Rev. Gardner's son will reside here with his parents.

Rev. J. J. Woodson, a former pastor here, was returned to his church at Redlands. Rev. Will K. Ray, who conducted an evangelistic campaign here, was assigned to the newly formed San Diego mission. Rev. R. P. Howell, for several years presiding bishop of this district, was not placed in active work, on account of his health. Rev. Alvah Andrews, one time Talbert Methodist preacher, will continue his work in school at Los Angeles.

Bishop DuBose was returned to his district as was Rev. S. H. Werlein as presiding elder.

Among those in attendance at the conference was Mrs. Hattie Talbert. Mrs. Talbert was accompanied home by Miss Mable Lee Woodson of Redlands. Miss Woodson resided here when her father, Rev. J. J. Woodson occupied the local pulpit. She is now attending the southern branch of the state university.

Hallowe'en Party At La Habra Ranch

LA HABRA, Oct. 31.—One of the most elaborate and pretty events of the week was a dinner party given by Mrs. W. A. Merryman at their beautiful ranch house in honor of Miss Bernice Sundstrom, who has been a guest for the past five months at the home of her sister, Mrs. I. S. Olson of Erna street, Miss Sundstrom left for her home in Joliet, Ill., Sunday.

A Hallowe'en note was charmingly carried off by Mrs. Merryman, her cozy home being transformed into a home of bloom.

The hostess served a most appetizing dinner of o'possum and sweet potatoes, and other dainty dishes. Hallowe'en colors predominated in all the tempting viands. A tiny glass of jelly was found in each orange jack 'o' lantern, and the place cards held picturesque caps, which added to the general effect. Those to enjoy the affair included Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Olson, Virvian Olson, the honoree, Bernice Sundstrom, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Merryman.

Miss Pauline Crumrine, assisted by her mother, entertained a bevy of girls at her home on North Hiatt street. The spacious room of the Crumrine home was festive with appropriate decorations and gay costumes of the guests. Hallowe'en games provided a jolly entertainment.

The most popular feature was Hallowe'en witch who told the fortunes of the guests.

The evening was spent in music and Hallowe'en games until refreshments were served, which consisted of pumpkin pie, apples and punch. Fourteen guests enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Crumrine.

Word was received by Mrs. Harry Dill Saturday of the death of her grandson, who was shot accidentally. She left Saturday for Cottage Grove, Ore., to attend the funeral.

The What-So-Ever class of the Temple Baptist church enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at the Masey Smith's barn on Whittier boulevard Monday evening. Hallowe'en decorations were used in an effective manner. The most popular feature consisted of a typical witch who told the fortunes of guests.

The evening was spent in Hal-

Vamp Qualities Listed By Canuck Movie Sheik

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Jacques Vuncenseer, French Canadian movie actor, who plays "sheik" parts and is supposed to know all about women, made the following appraisal of the "vamping" potentialities of various nationalities of women before sailing for France: French women, 100 per cent. Spanish women, 80 per cent. Russian women, 75 per cent. American women, 50 per cent. Canadian women, 22 per cent.

Boy Born On Ship Named for Captain

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Captain Eugene Hayward of the steamer City of Detroit III, gained a namesake when a son was born to Mrs. Louis Ciersielaki of Niagara Falls, N. Y., "at sea" a few days ago. When the boat reached Buffalo, the mother called the captain to her stateroom and told him that she would call the infant son Eugene. Mrs. Ciersielaki was attended by Dr. Carl F. Koenig of Philadelphia, who was a passenger on the boat. The mother and child were taken to the Columbus Hospital in Buffalo.

Auto Hits Train, So Pastor Rides Engine

FRANKFORT, Ind., Oct. 31.—As Rev. J. C. Pfiffer, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at First, Ind., was returning home from making a pastoral call, the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a fast Nickel Plate freight train.

The car was dragged more than forty feet and demolished.

When the engine crew stopped the train they found a badly frightened pastor riding the engine pilot. He had escaped with a sprained neck.

BUEN PARK WOMAN PLEASING HOSTESS

BUENA PARK, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Gerald McComber entertained with a delightful three course roast duck dinner Monday night. The table was beautifully adorned with a jack 'o' lantern as the centerpiece and other typical hallowe'en decorations. The evening was spent in playing Five Hundred.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Donald McComber, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Lewis of Artesia, and Mrs. D. W. Crook of Los Angeles, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. McComber.

Miss Ruth Starkey spent Monday night with Miss Mabel Robison.

Lester Schofield accompanied Mr. Archie Raitt, of Fullerton, to the Pacific Palisades, Santa Monica Sunday.

Miss Thelma O'Neil spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday with her aunt, Mrs. Sundburg in Whittier. Mrs. O'Neil and Florence Warren motored to Whittier Monday evening and Miss O'Neil came home with them.

Hallowe'en games and stunts after which refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Those to enjoy the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Root and family, Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Ludy, Mr. and Mrs. Colley, Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Early, Mrs. Conwell, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Merryman, Mrs. Lu Allen, Mrs. Pete, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Massey Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Cammack.

Experiments are being made with automobile bodies of compressed paper.

Birthday Elopers Spend Honeymoon Behind Bars

WEBSTER, Mass., Oct. 31.—An elopement was more thrilling than a birthday party, thought pretty Agnes Wilson, 17, of 2 River street, Charlton.

Instead of gazing on seventeen candles of a birthday cake, she is peering through seventeen bars of a jail cell, charged with being a stubborn child.

She was arrested with Arthur Bouillier, 28, a widower of Laconia, N. H., who is charged with abduction.

Armed Youths Kidnap Motorist, Steal Car

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Three young armed thieves stole the automobile of Salvatore de Acquistio, 1451 Thamos avenue, and Salvatore along with it. De Acquistio was sitting in his car near the intersection of Visitation and San Bruno avenues about 9 o'clock when the armed trio placed guns against his body and forced him into the rear seat. They then drove him into San Mateo county and tossed him out near the Pacific Gas and Electric Company substation. De Acquistio walked several miles back to the Bay View police station and reported his ill luck. The thieves kept on going.

There are dishes and dishes, but for beauty in design and color, combined with reasonableness in price, there are few to compare with the openstock patterns we are carrying. And just think. You can buy a 36-piece Cottage set in two of these delightful patterns for less than $11.00. Come in and see for yourself. Goff's, 317 W. 4th.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Oct. 31.—The Past Noble Grand association of Orange of the Rebekah lodge held an all-day meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. James Morgan with fourteen members present.

At noon a pot-luck dinner was enjoyed and a business meeting and fancy work occupied a part of the day. The guest of honor was Mrs. Arnold of Saratoga, matron of the Odd Fellows Old Peoples' Home at that place, who gave a most interesting talk on the home and its inmates, which was much enjoyed.

Mr. Schoule and daughter, Miss Viola and son Bill, of Gardena, were callers Sunday afternoon at the Morgan home.

H. B. Anderson lost a fine bunch of sixteen chickens Friday night. Although the pen was locked it was pried up and chickens caught. The thieves also took a coop with them. Mr. Anderson seems to be going out of the chicken business caused by the regular visits of thieves. His neighbor M. Terry has lost 175 hens in the past few months.

Mrs. James Morgan spent Monday with her mother Mrs. W. G. Alford in Santa Ana, it being the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alford's marriage.

Mr. Will McClintock and family moved Friday to Cypress to be nearer to his work. He is driving one of Merton Penhall's trucks on one of the milk routes.

Word received from Mrs. J. J. Stoves indicates they will start for home soon. Mrs. Stoves' mother who is with them recently celebrated her eighty-ninth birthday.

Jail Paris Cafe Man In Ousting of Negro Prince

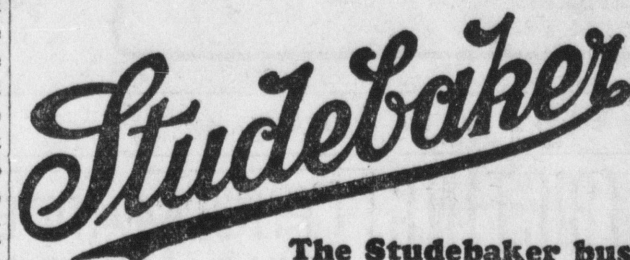

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Fifteen days in prison, a fine of 200 francs and the customary 1 franc damages to the plaintiff was the sentence imposed in court upon the manager of the Montmartre cabaret, who last August expelled Prince Hajo Tovalou Houenou, nephew of the late King Benhanzin of Dahomey. The prince brought a charge of assault and battery, alleging the manager expelled him and a Negro friend because some American customers objected to the presence of Negroes.

Man Fatally Wounded Drives Car Two Miles

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 31.—Although fatally shot through the abdomen, Homer Lindsay, 168 Emerald street south, drove his automobile two miles along the mountain brow until help reached him. Then he died on the operating table. Police spent the night searching the heavily-wooded mountain slopes for Lindsay's slayer, a foreigner, who begged a ride and then shot and robbed Lindsay.

Pins Money to Shirt; Loses It In Laundry

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Wellington Jay of 1205 East Seventy-first street, vowed he would never pin money in his shirt again. He appeared in the Englewood court and said he had left his savings, $800, pinned to a shirt he sent to a laundry owned by N. J. Tadson at 2045 East Seventy-first street. Tadson, who was arrested on Jay's complaint, denied he had seen the money. Judge Burke released him.

The Studebaker business was founded 71 years ago with a capital of $68 and two forges. Today Studebaker's actual net assets total $90,000,000, including $50,000,000 of plant facilities.

HOSPITAL RALLY SUPPER HERE ANNOUNCED

Residents of the southern part of Orange county who are interested in procuring for their territory a new hospital, were today completing final arrangements for a rally supper which they will hold at St. Ann's Inn here tomorrow, at 6:30 p. m., for the purpose of discussing ways and means for carrying out their plans and for formulating new plans relative to obtaining this admittedly much-needed institution.

Executives of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association reiterated that in order to build and equip the hospital properly it is necessary that about $150,000 more be pledged, approximately $100,000 having already been pledged.

The Santa Ana Valley hospital already has 300 subscribers and 32 contributors, all of whom are substantial citizens of the south end of the county. It is hoped that sufficient interest will be created to multiply this number several times.

The principal speakers of the evening will be Clyde Bishop, prominent Santa Ana citizen, and Dr. H. P. Wilson, who is connected with the new Memorial hospital at Whittier, and who will relate how a $300,000 hospital was made a reality in his community.

In addition to these speakers, short talks will be given by local citizens.

This supper is free to those attending, it being financed through contributions made by friends of the enterprise who are most cognizant of the great need existing in this community for a new and modern hospital, so that no part of hospital funds are being used to cover expenses of the supper. All who are interested in obtaining a hospital for Santa Ana valley or who wish to learn something about the S. A. V. H. organization are being invited to attend.

HOSPITAL AS COMMUNITY INSURANCE, SHOWN

The Santa Ana Valley Hospital association today issued another of a series of articles pertinent to the necessity of establishing a new hospital here and prepared for it by prominent local physicians. The statement follows:

"Health conservation, today more than ever, is commanding the earnest interest of the business world. The efficient upkeep of the human power-unit is the greatest feature in the 20th century industrial and social progress. An investment in the Santa Ana Valley hospital means a distinct return to every merchant, banker, manufacturer, farmer and professional man in this city, and will help make the community a safer place in which to live. The Santa Ana Valley hospital is a public utility; it belongs to the public and is administered in trust for it, with immeasurable potentialities for public service.

"Just as progressive citizens insure their homes and business against fire and theft, and protect their employees against accidents, beside providing their families with life insurance, so should the community insure the health of its residents by providing a modern, fireproof, sound-proof building of the first class.

"The whole community should support this hospital to the limit of its financial ability, thus providing facilities for caring for the sick.

"The entire cost of conducting this campaign is borne by friends of the hospital. All who pledge their contributions are given the unqualified assurance and guarantee that every dollar will go to the hospital."

NOTRE DAME RULING FINAL SAYS ROCKNE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 31.—The ruling of the Notre Dame college board against playing a Pacific coast team is final, unless the Tournament of Roses game is offered, Coach Knute Rockne, of the "fighting Micks," declared today.

Personally, Rockne is willing to have his team play on the coast, although he is somewhat fearful of the effect of coast climate on his men.

Rockne also denies he had entered into a contract for a game with Princeton next year. At the request of Bill Roper, Princeton coach, Rockne is holding open October 25 and November 1.

Coolidge Releases Sonoman from Jail

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Max Kaplan, wealthy Sonoma department store proprietor, sentenced by the late Federal Judge Van Fleet in May to one year in the county jail for violating the bankruptcy act, was liberated upon receipt here of executive clemency from President Coolidge. At the time of sentence, it was shown to the court that Kaplan, to deceive a large list of creditors, surreptitiously made away with thousands of dollars' worth of assets, including a quantity of valuable stock in trade.

Bags Third Bear for Whiskerino Barbecue

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 30.—The third bear for a bear barbecue was brought to this city today from Truckee, where it was bagged by Bart Greer.

The barbecue will be held at the state fair grounds November 17 by the Whiskerinos of '48, a local club that has for its main object perpetuation of the traditions of the golden days.

Virginian Gets 2 Years Term for Killing Cow

WINCHESTER, Va., Oct. 31.—Worley Puffinberger was found guilty by a jury and given two years in the penitentiary for stabbing to death a cow belonging to Mrs. Bertha W. Haynes in the northern part of Frederick county last May 13.

Puffinberger was said to have been warned on several previous occasions against trespassing on Mrs. Haynes' property. Malice was charged in the indictment. The court took under advisement a defense motion for arrest of judgment, the accused's attorney claiming the verdict was not supported by sufficient evidence.

CITES PENALTY IN INCORRECT TAX RETURN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Taxpayers returning incomplete or incorrect sales tax returns will be penalized from 5 to 25 per cent, under an order received from Washington today by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

Ten thousand motion picture theaters and other places of amusement, jewelers and in fact every mercantile house which sells taxable articles, are affected by the ruling, he said, adding:

"When unsigned checks are submitted in payment of sales taxes and a properly signed check is not received prior to the expiration of the legal period of payment, a penalty of 5 per cent will be imposed.

"When a return received during the legal period is not properly executed and is returned to the taxpayer for his signature, the signature of a witness or execution of the jurat, and the necessary action is not taken by the taxpayer within a period of ten days, a 25 per cent penalty will be imposed if the corrected return when received is delinquent.

"Where a taxpayer habitually submits improperly executed returns, maximum penalties will be asserted. Attention was called to the fact that a sales tax return must be sworn to by the taxpayer, except that where the tax covered is not in excess of $10, it may be signed and acknowledged by two witnesses, instead of under oath. The oath on a return must be signed by an authorized person who should follow his name with a descriptive word showing his relation to the company or firm."

Collector Goodcell said that most of the incomplete returns were due to lack of signature of the taxpayer or of witnesses. Under the ruling the imposition of penalties is not left to the discretion of Collector Goodcell, but must be asserted in all cases coming within the scope of the order.

LOW TOURIST FARES NEXT YEAR, IS PLAN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Southern California will enjoy the largest summer tourist business in its history next year, according to T. C. Peck, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific System, who has just announced that the railroads will make the same low summer fares to and from California which were in force during the past season.

Tickets will be on sale next summer from the East to California until September 30, with final limit October 31. From Los Angeles and other California points excursion tickets will be on sale until September 15, with final return limit October 31. The date the excursion fares will go into effect has not as yet been announced, but it is presumed in local railroad circles the dates will be about the same in 1924 as in 1923, which was May 15.

"These low railroad fares, together with the advertising of the All Year club and the railroads, will bring a flood of summer tourists to Southern California next summer," said Peck. "The extensive building campaign in the Southland will take care of the increasing tourist traffic."

Insurance Inspector Deceitful, Avers Wife

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Albert J. Buneman, inspector for the state insurance commission was so deceitful, according to the plea of Mrs. Margot Buneman, San Carlos who filed in the superior court a suit for divorce, that when they were married on July 12, 1921, he concealed from her the fact that he owed $300 for bills contracted during his first wife's fatal illness. Being a frugal and economical wife by her own admission, Mrs. Buneman contends that such deceit constituted mental cruelty, as did her husband's representation that the sum of $500 was a gift received by him when in reality it was a loan. Also, Buneman is said to have added to his wife's mental anguish by stating publicly that he would like to have her brain examined.

King Doris May Seek American for Wife

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The Bulgarian legation states that King Boris is preparing to make a tour of Europe and that he may go to America. It was learned that the king is seeking a rich wife to recoup his family fortunes. It is rumored that King Boris may try to win the Princess Ileana of Rumania for the Sofia Queen, otherwise, he may seek a rich American girl.

SHIFT MADE IN 'ROBIN HOOD' OPERA CAST

Two changes in the cast of "Robin Hood," Reginald De Koven's famous opera, which the Orange County Choral union will produce at the Yost theater here the nights of December 4 and 5, were announced today.

Glenn Merrill of Anaheim will play the part of Little John at both presentations, and will not alternate with Robert L. Brown, as had at first been planned.

Will Gallienne of this city will play Sir Guy, replacing Fred Wilde, who was originally to have played the part.

Brown and Wilde, both prominent members of the choral union, who have won much popularity in that organization's productions, were unable, on account of business duties, to continue with the parts, it was said.

Mrs. A. E. Chapman of this city has been cast for the part of Dame Durden.

There are now nearly seventy persons in the play, according to choral union executives. Rehearsals, which henceforth will be held twice a week, are progressing remarkably well. Several dancing numbers in the first act are being particularly well done, it was declared.

The opera will be produced by the choral union at the Anaheim high school auditorium December 7, according to present plans.

ARE YOU PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH?

OF COURSE, you can save a little by doing your washing instead of using "Rough Dry" service. But you won't save much, when "Rough Dry" is only a few cents a pound, and home washing costs something in time and materials.

And is that little you save worth your day's labor, with its "washed out" feeling at the end of the day?

"Rough Dry" service will make your iron lighter—for it irons all the flat work, fluffs bath towels, underwear and hosiery, dry and smooth, ready to use, leaving only the lighter pieces for you to do.

SANTA ANA PASTOR SPEAKS AT TUSTIN

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—"Your brain is the foundation upon which stands the superstructure of life, and the way in which you study determines the quality of the material upon which you are to build," said Otto Russel, pastor of the First Baptist church of Santa Ana, in a short address to the student body of Tustin high school Thursday, October 19.
"Under the great cathedral of Cologne," continued Mr. Russel,
"the foundations of six hundred years' duration are weakening and crumbling. Covered, but there just the same, was the proof of poor workmanship; and just the same, whether you succeed in covering it or not, in our mind dwells the proof of insincerity of study."
"Just as upon solid stone and concrete, ordinary though they are,
is built the lofty skyscraper, spectacular and grand, so is the miraculous fabric of later life to be based on that which you gain here, the development of your mind."

Fire Official Hurt In Auto Collision

SANTA ANA, Oct. 31.—The wild and simultaneous clanging of the bells on a cable car and the fire chief's red runabout came dangerously near causing a fatality or two when Acting Chief D. J. O'Donnell, speeding to an alarm, collided with an automobile driven by Vincent Turturlier, 2134 Jones street, at the intersection of O'Farrell and Stockton streets. Both machines were damaged and O'Donnell received cuts about his face and head. He was treated at the Central emergency hospital, Turturlier was unhurt. He explained that the routinized clanging of the bells confused him.

100 Elms Cut Down In Fight On Pest

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—
Gangs of laborers from the Kansas City, Kas., park department, under direction of L. D. Dolph, park superintendent, have started the work of cutting down approximately 100 dead elm trees in the parks and along the boulevards which have been destroyed by parasites during the summer. Dolph estimates recently that 200 elm trees on private property also had been killed by the pests. These should be cut down by the property owners to prevent further spread of the epidemic, Dolph said.

VACCINE IN U. OF C. GIRL'S LEG BANNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—The University of California cares naught for feminine beauty.
Hence the edict that the young college women must be vaccinated —and on the arm.

Refusal to be vaccinated means expulsion from college, and already this semester three students have failed to complete matriculation, according to a report made by Dr.
J. N. Force, chairman of the hygiene department of the Berkeley institution.

College women who do not want their beauty destroyed by an unsightly scar on the arm have sought to have Dr. Force vaccinate on the leg. This, the physician declares, is dangerous, and remains adamant that all vaccinations must be made on the left arm.

"It is dangerous to vaccinate on the leg on account of the amount of walking a student averages daily. It would not be so harmful if the patient would remain in bed for a week," says Dr. Force.

"Women students objecting to a scar on the arm and insisting upon being vaccinated on the leg must have it done outside the university, as the college authorities will not be held responsible," the physician continues.

Hence, if the feminists wish to retain their delectable beauty, they must come armed with a certificate from an outside physician.

FOUR GREAT COLTS CLASH AT LATONIA

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 31.—Eyes of the sporting world are glued on Latonia race track where the American championship thoroughbred race will be staged Saturday with Zev, My Own, in Memoriam and Rialto entered.

Zev, conqueror of the English champion Papyrus, is expected to arrive Thursday and My Own, rival of Zev and Rialto, are scheduled to reach Latonia tomorrow.

In Memoriam, owned by Carl Weidemann, of Newport, Ky., has been here all season. Rialto is Henry Payne Whitney's entry.

The race will be run over a mile and three quarters route for a purse of $50,000. Added money will make the race a $60,000 affair.

Some turf fans believe the distance will be advantageous to My Own but others point to the fact that Jockey Earle Sande pushed Zev to a remarkably strong finish in the mile and a half match with Papyrus.

Weidemann fondly believes his thoroughbred is a greater horse than either Zev or My Own and he awaits the coming of the day when he can show the racing world just how great his In Memoriam is. Mack Garner, will have the mount on the Weidemann colt.

Ex-Minister Weds Again; Couple Lives Separately

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Francis H.
Boyer, former Episcopal clergyman, divorced from the niece of Mrs.
Jack Gardner and married to another woman in violation of a court order which prohibits remarriage in this State until next January, has married a third time but is living alone in a Boston apartment.
His wife is living alone in another.
A short distance away.

Boyer got into trouble in 1922
when Mrs. Bernice Boucher committed suicide because of her love for the clergyman. Then came the divorce, and finally on January 25, 1923, he married Miss Lucille Mc-Comber, of Windsor, Nova Scotia, in Portland, Me. The new wife is twenty-three years old, it is said, many years Boyer's junior.

Chicago 6647 Babies Short Since 1916

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—With a steadily climbing birth rate, Chicago is "short" 6647 babies since 1916, according to the Infant Welfare society of Chicago.

In 1916, when the population of the city was only 2,517,172, 56,417 babies were born. In 1922, when the population figure was placed at 2,530,000, only 56,724 babies were born. The rate during those years had fallen from 22.4 a thousand to 20.02. Using these figures as a basis, Orlo F. King, extension secretary of the Infant Welfare society, said Chicago is short 6647 babies.

Children In Fight Over Father's Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.— Brothers aligned against a sister over the disposition of their father's estate—that is the situation among the three children of Albert Rosa, the big "sauerkraut king," who died July 15. Louis Rosa, son, has filed action to break the will, whereby he is left but $50 and his sister, Mrs. Zesira Brinzo, 177 Twenty-eighth street, practically the entire remainder of the estate. Another son, Duilio, is expected to join Louis. It is alleged that the "sauerkraut king's" daughter used undue influence, seldom allowing him out of her sight.

"LEGALLY DEAD" ON SCREEN

AT NEW PRINCESS
How many men are convicted on circumstantial evidence and put to death when they really are innocent? Many learned lawyers scoff at the idea that such a thing happens frequently, while others contend it is not such a great rarity. Only a few years ago newspapers reported two cases within one week where dying men confessed to crimes for which others paid the penalty. In both cases confessions came too late to save the innocent. Both had been convicted on circumstantial evidence, evidence that seemed absolutely conclusive.

Just such a case proves the basis of the sensational Universal screen success, "Legally Dead," which is now playing at the Princess theater. Milton Sills plays the leading role of a man wrongfully convicted of a murder.
The confession of the error is made one minute after he is hung.
Too late, again. Well, not in this case, for a physician using the newly discovered life restoring drug, adrenalin, steps in and after hours of frantic work resurrects the dead.

WALTER LONG IN CAST OF WEST END PICTURE

Walter Long, most hated of all screen villains, for the first time in his long career has heard laughter, instead of the usual volley of hisses, greet his appearance on the silver sheet.

In Tom Forman's production of "The Broken Wing," which is now being shown to crowded houses at the West End theater. Long plays the part of a pompous and noxious Mexican revolutionary leader but his villainy is inter-persed with so much humor that the part falls well within the range of comedy.

In the bath scene Long is at his best. He has a sawed-off barrel for a bath tub and his horror, when he begins to prepare himself for his ablutions, is written in every line of his face. Not being an expert on bathing, Long has his aide-de-camp, a sleepy and indolent Mexican, played by Ed Brady, assist him. The assistant's ideas on the subject are elementary but he does his best. The result is that the victim is groomed more like a horse than a human being.

POLA NEGRI FILM OPENS

AT YOST TONIGHT
A picture story with a happy ending for Pola Negri! That is something which the admirers of this celebrated screen star will see in "The Cheat," her latest picture, which will be on view at the Yost theater for three days beginning tonight.

The story of "The Cheat" deals with a wealthy girl of Latin-American parentage who, to avoid wedding an old man, chosen by her father, elopes with a young American. In Paris she is loved by an art swindler disguised as an East Indian Prince who follows her to New York. The girl is dis-inherited by her father, and unused to poverty, she accepts the supposed Hindu's offer of money with which to gamble. At first she wins, then loses not only her own money but a charity fund entrusted to her. Panic-stricken, she borrows from the "prince" and promises to dine with him alone in return for the loan.

At this juncture her husband wins a small fortune by putting over a lumber deal, and gives her $25,000. She writes a check for the amount due the Hindu and carries it to his home. But he tells her he doesn't want the money—he wants her. When she seeks to escape he drags her to a table and brands her as "a cheat."

She takes up a revolver and shoots him, then escapes from the house just as her husband steps into the scene.
From this point on, the action is rapid and races swiftly to one of the finest climaxes ever seen on the screen. The ending is happy. The part of the husband is played by Jack Holt, popular star, while the role of the disguised Hindu prince is in the capable hands of Charles de Roche, the famous French screen star.

GROVE BANK WILL GIVE CASH PRIZES

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—Two things are needed this year. First, there are a few persons who could make good use of an extra five-dollar bill. Second, the "Pep" staff needs a new, artistic cover for this year's annual, and a few pen and ink sketches for the department headings. They also need good essays, sketches, stories, and poems.
Through the courtesy of the Citizens' National bank, the staff is enabled to announce the following contest and offer a prize of five dollars for the best in each group.

The contest is divided as follows:
1. The best cover design for the annual to be handed in on or before March 1, 1924.
2. The best drawings for the departmental headings, handed in on or before March 1, 1924.
3. The best essay or sketch handed in during November on or before the twenty-third.
4. The best story handed in during December on or before the fourteenth.
5. The best poem handed in.
This contest is open to all the student body.

Claims Slander Damages of County Commission

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 31.—

County Commissioner W. R. Adamson, of Mahanoy township, was sued for $50,000 damages by School Superintendent Joseph F. Noonan, of the same township, for remarks Adamson was alleged to have made at a public meeting.
It was charged that he said teachers of the township contributed to a fund to bribe voters at

POLY ART STUDENTS PREFER OPEN SPACES IF SKETCHING TREES

If sketching in the sun is the rule, who wouldn't want to learn freehand drawing?

High school students in the drawing classes put the question as they explained how much more fun they would have sitting on a three-legged stool, ready to sketch trees on the campus, than hanging over a desk in the classroom with trees only appearing as mental images.

Miss Eleanor Hughes, instructor, agrees with her students that it is best to send the classes out on the campus to draw from nature.

Anyone visiting the art studios will be surprised to see how much the charcoal trees look like the originals, say those who have visited.

"This is just one of the ways in which the art department is appealing to the students and is trying to make their work both enjoyable and instructive," said Miss Floy Donaldson, head of the department, who added that she believed students should have interest in their work.

The costume design classes present another angle of the art work and here one can find dozens of students busily constructing on paper gowns which would make an Erte take interest.

The cartoon club appeals to those students who have a sense of humor and ability to express it, it was explained.

Arts and crafts classes create gorgeous things with wicker, wood, metal, clay and textiles. The effort of the instructors is devoted to the teaching of the fundamentals of color, line and design, Miss Donaldson declared.

BOLSANS FIGHT SCHOOL AREA SHIFT PLAN

Opposition today had developed to the petition of certain citizens in the Bolsa school district, representing 480 acres, asking the board of supervisors for permission to transfer to the Garden Grove district. When the petition came before the supervisors here yesterday afternoon, opponents to the proposition showed their cards. Decision was deferred until after another hearing set for next Tuesday, at 11 a. m.

Those in the Bolsa district attempting to block favorable action on the petition declared they scouted the legality of the step. The district recently had bonded itself heavily for school equipment, it was pointed out, and withdrawal of the proposed acreage would increase the burden through a reduction in total valuation. It was declared. Opinion was expressed that the 480 acres involved could be held liable for its share of the bonded indebtedness, even were school district lines altered, as proposed.

Those asking the change pointed out their proximity to the school facilities in the Garden Grove district, which they declared to be more comprehensive, as ground for consideration of their petition.

Boy Ends Life When Denied Movie Money

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Because his mother would not give him money to go to a moving picture show, Carl Sherman, 11, hanged himself from the post of his bed here last night. His mother, Bertha E. Sherman, went out after refusing him money. When she returned two hours later she found his body.

POLICE AIM TO KEEP CHECK ON TRAMPS

Police Chief Claude Rogers today issued a warning to Santa Ana residents regarding the feeding of tramps. He said the winter influx of vagrants to Southern California had started and that Santa Ana is receiving its share of "bedroll" tourists. Police want to question tramps visiting this city and requests that whenever one appears at a home seeking food that the department be notified, Rogers added.

"Some of the most desperate criminals in the United States travel in the guise of tramps," Rogers pointed out. "They do this to escape detection among the thousands of tramps traveling over the country seeking work or opportunities to commit petty thefts. It is true that many times there are honest men who are willing to work traveling as tramps because of financial difficulties. When the police find such men an attempt is made to help them. At any rate they are not jailed. It is the professional tramp, the petty thief, and the professional criminal that we are after."

Among the natives of South Africa there is a general belief in the split soul. One tribe believes in three souls—one in the head, another in the stomach, and a third in the big toe.

TO TALK PORT PROJECTS AT C. OF C. MEET

Discussion of the suggested construction of a county boulevard from the north end of the county to Newport harbor, and definite steps in connection with the plan to send harbor representatives to Washington probably will be featured at the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting to be held at Garden Grove tonight.

According to William Schumacher, supervisor from the north end of the county, rough estimates indicate that the boulevard in question could be built at a cost of about $1,000,000.

Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach, in advocating the movement to send harbor boosters to Washington, pointed out that ample opportunity will be afforded the proper authorities in Washington the urgent necessity for further improvements at Newport harbor. At tonight's meeting, it is understood, the Associated Chambers will be asked to urge the county board of supervisors to send two harbor boosters to the national capital. Newport Beach will also be asked to send one booster.

"I am prompted to take this action," Wallace explained, "as the result of information contained in a letter from Representative Phil D. Swing, urging early selection of a delegation to present harbor facts in Washington."

This committee, Wallace explained, would attend a hearing before the board of army engineers on a proposed re-survey of Newport harbor.

An excellent dinner will be served when the members of the Associated Chambers assemble tonight in the Women's clubhouse at Garden Grove.

PLAYERS SCORE SUCCESS AGAIN IN THRILLER

Repeating its success of the opening night, the Santa Ana Community Players' association, at the Temple theater here last night, delighted a crowded house with its production of "The Thirteenth Chair," Bayard Veiller's famous play of thrills and mystery. Indications today were that equally large attendance would mark the final two performances, to be given tonight and tomorrow night.

The cast which Ernest Crozier Phillips, directors of the Players, selected for "The Thirteenth Chair," is declared to be peculiarly well adapted for the various parts, a number of which are difficult in the extreme.

Hundreds of theater-goers here maintain that the present production probably is better than any of the fourteen others that the Community Players have presented here during the past four seasons. They say that this is true when balance of cast, excellence of acting and general staging are taken into consideration.

The Players are looking forward with much pleasure to beginning work on "R. U. R.," described as an "intellectual melodrama," which they will produce here December 10 to 14, inclusive. This play will be directed by George Gerwing, assistant director of the Players.

POLICE SOUND HALLOWE'EN WARNING

City Marshal Claude Rogers today issued a warning to youths of Santa Ana regarding Halloween pranks planned for tonight. He said that wholesome fun and innocent pranks would be tolerated, but that any destruction of property or annoying of citizens would result in the arrest of the offenders.

"It is not the intention of the police department," said Rogers, "to interfere with harmless fun tonight, but property destruction will be stopped and anyone caught destroying property will be jailed."

The placing of explosives on street car tracks or of obstructions across sidewalks or driveways that endanger life or property, will not be tolerated. My patrolmen will have instructions to arrest anyone caught placing such explosives or obstructions.

"Last year a group of youths visited homes in the residential sections of the city and deliberately broke flower pots and urns on front porches. To my mind this cannot be classed as Halloween prank. It is nothing less than willful destruction of property and anyone caught committing such offenses this year will be dealt with accordingly."

Garden Grove Girls To Organize League

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31—Miss Aiton, vice president of Garden Grove union high, called a meeting of all the girls Wednesday, October 24, in order to establish a girls' league. She gave a short talk concerning the purpose and aims of the league. A committee was then chosen to select nominees for officers in the league. The committee is Ethel Emerson, chairman; Miss Scott, advisor; and Buelah Barnett, Marie Newman, Frances Dungan, Norma Larson, Enlah Hapes, Alora Owen and Zula Hapes.

Electrical Picture On School Program

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—In connection with the film "Romance Land" at the high school auditorium Friday, November 2, there will be a picture showing the development of the electrical industry in California. An official of the Southern California Edison Company will lecture, explaining the picture and the important development of electricity in Southern California. Scenes in the high Sierras will be shown, where the mighty dams and power houses are located and where her rivers are harnessed to furnish electric light and power to the homes.

"The electrical business is the largest industry in California," said J. W. Means, principal of Tustin high school.

1924 MODEL 5-Pass Sedan $1365
F. O. B. Cleveland

Get Away Faster

With the "Extra Power" Motor of the New Five Passenger Sedan

REGARDLESS of the fact that this popular Cleveland model has a reputation for great durability, comfort and economy, a large part of its popularity can be directly traced to the amazing performance qualities of the new "extra power" motor under its hood.

This new motor is the outstanding engineering achievement in the light six field. It is more compact than the motor of the average light six, yet it develops from 16% to 30% more power between 10 and 35 miles an hour.

That's why the Cleveland Six shoots out swiftly ahead in traffic—why it passes bigger and costlier cars on hills with an ease that is almost unbelievable in a closed car so moderately priced and so sturdily constructed.

PAPER'S PLANT IS INSPECTED
BY STUDENTS

Tustin Writers See All Steps of Newspaper Work Demonstrated

BY FLORENCE BOOSEY.

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL,

Oct. 31.—The hubbub and roar of great machines working with a fatalistic precision, such is the general impression received when first stepping into a large newspaper plant. Upon closer observation more minute details are brought to the conscience of the amateur observer, at first unnoticed because of the perfection of the whole.

But it is with newspaper work as with other professions: attention and care paid to the small things finally bring success to the whole.

A group of amateurs might well be impressed with the bigness of the thing, as those from Tustin

Union High school certainly were when they visited The Register plant Tuesday afternoon, October

30. The thought of being a part small as that part is, of an institution so large, and which is brought so closely to the attention of so many people, is enough to make any amateur strive to make his small part worth noting.

MODERN METHODS

MAKE IMPRESSION.

BY HORACE BUTLER.

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL,

Oct. 31.—Up-to-date methods employed in the mechanical division of The Santa Ana Register greatly impressed the Tustin journalism class which visited the plant Tuesday, October 30.

The "Printer Telegraph," which is just being installed, is the latest improvement. It receives and types telegraph messages sent by the press associations. There are only twenty papers in the state using these machines.

In the composing room seven big linotypes cast the type which is later arranged in the "form." These forms, in turn, are impressed on a sheet of cardboard sufficiently flexible for a mold. The card-boards, called mats, are used to mold the final forms which are cast into semicircle pieces of type metal and fastened on to the rollers.

These are automatically inked and the paper is run over them to receive the impression, while at the other end of the press the papers come out folded and ready to be delivered.

PLACE OF MUSIC

IN SCHOOLS GIVEN

BY THELMA NORDSTROM.

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL,

Oct. 31.—"Music is here in our schools not to help the youth of our land to make a living, but to help them live," quoted Miss

Stephens, music director of the Tustin union high school when interviewed on the subject of the place of music in the high school.

"To be well balanced," she continued, "the individual must be developed spiritually as well as physically and mentally.

"It is a psychological truth that thinking things over, saying them over, makes an idea become a part of one. If that is true, it is repeatedly expressed in words in a rhythmic form, the impression is still deeper, though the moods expressed may be joy, patriotism or sympathy."

In order to strengthen her position Miss Stephens pointed out that certain business firms are introducing chorus music in their recreation period for their employees; that prominent educational authorities maintain that students do better when they have chorus singing and that statistics show that musical instruments are seldom found in the homes of criminals.

"You know," added Miss Stephens, "what Shakespeare said about the man who has no music in his soul being fit for treason, stratagem

Further advantages claimed for vocal music were that it is a great memory force, aids in clearer enunciation and is a great health giver, for nothing is more healthful than deep breathing.

Miss Stephens' objections to popular jazz music were that its rhythms, words and associations are not elevating. To effectively combat this, something better must be given in its place and often a taste for good music must be cultivated.

"Music," said Miss Stephens

in conclusion, "brings joy, health, love, and is instrumental in unifying a group by taking away feelings of discord."

Game Protested By Tustin Because Of Time Discrepancy

TUSTIN UNION HIGH

SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—When the final whistle of the Tustin-

Anahem game, October 26, was blown, the crowd left not knowing that the last quarter

had been cut six minutes

short, but the keen-eyed Tus-tin principal had kept accurate account of the playing time and made the fact known.

The officials of the game explained the act as being in accordance with the C. I. F.

rule which says that all league games may be called ten minutes after five o'clock—sundown.

Mr. Means immediately communicated with the Western Union and received the correct time. The official's watch was, according to standard time, six minutes fast. This situation resulted in the game being protested.

If the C. I. F. officials so rule, the game will be replayed at some near date.

TUSTIN PLEASING

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL,

Oct. 31.—It's a great life if your pocketbook doesn't weaken. Thus it might be said of the life of any high school student, and of a senior in particular. Student body and class dues, a few cents for this, and a few cents for that, and more than a few cents for rings, soon strains even the most faithful of pocketbooks.

The senior rings! At last they're here! Not a senior begrudges the eight dollars and forty cents he had to pay. They are things of beauty, a delight to the eye. They are made of Roman gold; the top is flat and set with black onyx, on which set there is space for one initial of the owner. On the sides of the rings are the school's initals, T. U. H. S., and the numerals 1924.

On the inside of the ring is the possessor's full initials. The seniors are quite justly proud of their new treasures. It is a ring that can be worn in after years at other schools and colleges, as special prominence is given the personal initial rather than that of the school.

Anaheim Student Writes About

Superstitions of Hallowe'en

ANAHEIM UNION HIGH

SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—Ages ago

in the old Gallic time the Druids were priests of the Celts.

Half a century before Christ,

Julius Caesar spoke mainly of the Celts of Gaul. They were divided into two ruling classes and kept in a state of slavery.

The Celts worshipped spirits of the forest and stream, and feared the powers of evil. This primitive belief has still been kept with the Scotch, Irish and Welsh peasantry. Brooks, hills and rocks abounded with little supernatural beings who lead to good or evil, or lead them astray by flickering lights.

The name Druid was derived from the Celtic word meaning oak, the oak was held as sacred by them as a symbol of the omnipotent god, upon whom they depended for life as the mistletoe did which grew upon

it. Most of their ceremonies were held under these trees.

Later, the word magician was formed from Druid, showing these priests dealt in the art of magic. Since they were tree-worshippers, trees and plants were thought to have peculiar powers.

On October 31 the lord of death gathered together the souls of all those who had died in the passing year and had been condemned to live in the bodies of animals. He could be coaxed to give lighter sentences by gifts or prayers.

The badge of the initiated

Druids was a glass ball supposed to be made in summer from the spittle of snakes caught by the priests as the snakes tossed it into the air.

This was supposed to aid the wearer in winning law suits and securing the favor of the kings.

The black cat was a sacred animal to the Druids. They thought it guarded a treasure in the old days, and for a long time was dreaded by the peo-

BEACH WRITERS
DO WELL WITH PAPER WORK

It has been called to our attention that a picture of the students contributing to the Junior Register from Huntington Beach, was somewhat in error in that several of the students of the school who were in different classes and absent were not in the picture or did not receive mention.

It must be pointed out that the Huntington Beach Union High school has shown some fine spirit in connection with the Junior Register and has done much to make the paper a success. Huntington

Beach has no journalistic class.

Most of the material handed in by the students of that school come from the Sophomore English classes handled by three teachers,

Miss McGill, Mrs. Betts, and Miss

Van Arsdale.

All of these teachers have been doing especially well, through an oversight on the part of the reported who snapped the picture, the name of Miss Van Arsdale was omitted when the picture was published. Her classes have been doing especially fine work.

When some of the facts pertaining to the copy from the Huntington Beach high school are taken into consideration it is hard to tell which of the teachers and students deserve the most credit. A number of voluntary contributions have also made their appearance, showing that other students are also interested in the movement.

The copy is handed to the teacher of the class who selects the best of the articles and hands them either to Mrs. Julia Hazelton, head of the English department for editing, or back to the student for correction. This is done several times and the teachers have done all in their power to make the copy as nearly perfect as possible.

Mrs. Hazelton, herself a former newspaper woman, and journalist teacher before she came to Huntington Beach, deserves much credit for the time and painstaking effort put upon the students' work to make it really as attractive as possible. The Junior Register is looking forward to some more fine articles from the Huntington Beach

Union High School students.

PICNIC FOR SENIORS

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO

UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—

Bessie Carrillo and Melvin

SWALLOWED UP BY MRS. WILSON WOODROW ILLUSTRATED BY RAY SATERFIELD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Loring Ranger offers a reward of one hundred thousand dollars for the return of his daughter, Hope, who has been abducted by a band of criminals called the "Combine." He receives a letter from the abductors instructing him where to leave the money. Bonds are deposited according to instructions.

Hope is held in a sanitarium conducted by Dr. Bristow and she makes friends with Dr. Kelsey, another prisoner. Together they escape, but Hope is recaptured.

Kelsey plans with Juarez Charlie, adventurer and friend of Ranger, to send word of Hope's whereabouts to her father. Alderman Higgins, head of the "Combine," tells Bristow that Hope must be killed. Bristow goes to the girl and offers to help her escape.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"At liberty. Quite safe. Still at the old house, for all I know, I have not seen him. I got all this from Morton, who has been in communication with him."

"My dear child," he took her hands again, and spoke with imperative tenderness, "won't you trust me?" I am going to take you back to your home. But we must act quickly. You see that nurse's outfit?" He pointed to the bundle. "I want you to put it on at once. Try to look as much like Miss Copley as possible." He was borrowing Higgins' idea. "Fix your hair the same way. Then come out. I'll be waiting for you."

The moment he was out of the room she began to change into the garments she had brought. She had finished and was just putting on her nurse's bonnet and cape when he tapped again and entered.

"Good girl!" he said approvingly, and even in his haste, admiringly. "The car will be waiting. Come."

They had turned to the door when it flew open, and Anita faced them.

Darling, flaming, she slammed the door behind her, and stood, her venomous glances darting from one to the other, to fasten at last on Bristow.

His anger was white hot, but he did his best to control it.

"Let me remind you, Miss Copley," he said severely, "that you should be on duty elsewhere. You'll take my orders now, and return to your post."

"Oh, indeed?" she flaunted her sneers. "I wonder what the Alderman will have to say to that?"

He looked at her, a catlike gleam in his narrowed eyes.

"I think the Alderman will probably have a good deal to say when he learns that it is you who are responsible for his plans going wild. I have discovered—"

Juarez slightly to tantalize her—

"I have just discovered just how drawing Charlie got his tip that Miss Ranger was in this sanitarium."

"You have?" She tossed her head to cover a vague uneasiness aroused by his manner.

"Just that." He inclined his head slowly. "Through a small oversight, or, shall we say, inexcusable carelessness—most likely from feminine motives of economy—that hat in which I understand a photograph of Miss Ranger was taken, was exchanged for another—a direct clue not to be perverted or misinterpreted in any possible way."

Anita tottered and for an instant closed her eyes.

Her whole bearing and expression altered. With the iron of necessity she seemed to have smoothed out every wrinkle of passion. She stood before him, her superior, the respectful, composed nurse.

"You're right, Dr. Bristow. I forgot myself. I apologize. But I don't believe you want me to go back on duty or even remain in the hospital under the circumstances."

"If you will pay me what you owe me," with a glance that Bristow rightly interpreted as meaning that she demanded a heavy stake, "I will leave at once."

His lip drew back showing the edge of his teeth.

"You are asking me to assist in your escape—the nurse who fooled me into believing Miss Ranger was her sister—who has posed this perhaps inextinguishable blot on my hospital?" He spoke with virtuous indignation.

She took all this as mere preamble. He was talking for effect, showing her the line he meant to follow and strengthening his position with the girl at the same time.

"I know, I know, Doctor. But you don't altogether understand. I have been a tool, an unwitting tool—a tool of Higgins."

"You can go down and get your week's salary from the cashier." He spoke with curt finality. "Further than that, I refuse to compromise with you."

The answer stunned her, overtaxed her carefully maintained repression.

"My week's salary? Doctor, I'll need money. It's too late to do anything in town, and I can't cash a check for a sufficient amount in the village. You always keep from five to ten thousand here in the safe, and I must have it."

She waited. His face was like flint, his eyes stone cold. He frightened her, and she cast her eyes to the window.

"You couldn't leave me here—"

"With Higgins? For your own sake, you couldn't. He'll get off with you. He's got you. But I—I—"

She folded her arms. "You don't dare."

"You will have a hard time implicating me in any of your criminal performances," he said haughtily. "The fact that as soon as I learned of Miss Ranger's identity, I took steps to return her to her parents, exonerates me."

She sought through her memory for some threat to hold over him.

"Kelsey," she said suddenly. "It's not certain that he's drowned. Suppose he turns up?"

News from Orange County Towns

ONE ZONE LAW OPPOSED BY TAXPAYERS

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—Joy at the possibility that the "oil" zoning ordinance, which has been under considerable discussion for the past month, was at a rest and that they would be able to pass the ordinance, was short lived when it was learned shortly before the regular meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon that several petitions had been filed with City Clerk W. A. White, protesting the ordinance.

The first petition presented the board shortly after they had convened was signed by a large number of business firms, whose representatives declared that their land had been left from the oil section and that, as they were in acreage, it would not matter if they had been left in the oil zone.

After a short talk by E. B. Collier, secretary of the Central Lemon association, one of the signers of the petition, the board agreed that the section mentioned in the petition should be taken into the oil district.

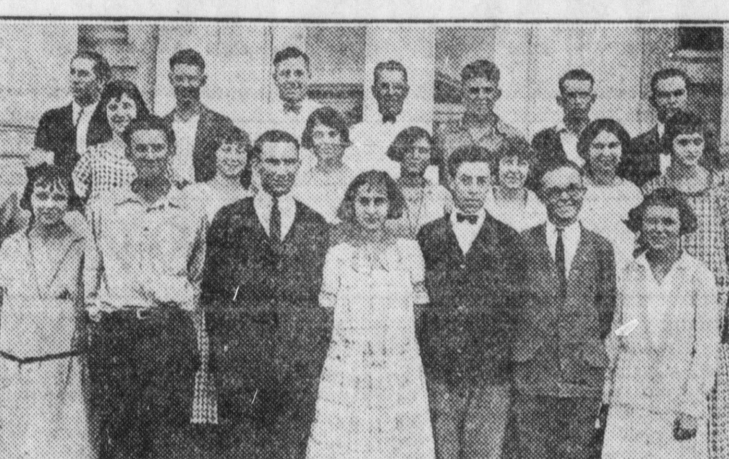

Those who had signed the petition were the Central Lemon association, by E. B. Collier, secretary; The Western Cordage company, by J. G. D. Knight, secretary; John Adams, William Parks, W. S. Cooper and H. E. Zarf.

Immediately after this petition had been read to the board a petition signed by twenty-eight persons, all property owners, who protested the leaving of their property out of the oil district, was given the board and after a lengthy discussion this petition was denied acceptance by the board.

The denial of the petition was made on motion of Trustee Almsworth and was seconded by Trustee Walton.

After transacting other business the board took Ordinance No. 212 under consideration and after a short discussion passed this on final hearing. This is the now famous Oil District Ordinance.

These Students Get Out Orange High School Paper

EDITOR FINDS MUCH GOOD IN PAPER IDEA

By SAM MEYER

Editor Newport News and Costa Mesa Herald

"What do you think of the Junior Register?"

Merle Hussong, Junior Register editor, tossed that question at me the other day and I asked him if he wanted the truth.

"You bet!" was his emphatic answer.

Well, I believe that if you will give all the towns in Orange county space in the Junior Register I would increase my admiration for it. You see many of the towns like Newport Beach and Costa Mesa do not have high schools and must be content with sending our children to Santa Ana.

Our folks, naturally, think just as much of our schools as do the people in other towns. So I believe if you would include all the towns in the county in that section then the entire population of Orange county would enjoy that page with vivid interest.

The Junior Register is a splendid idea because it gives the youngsters a chance at real training that they would not get otherwise.

When a boy or girl can see his brain churning in print, it creates confidence in his work, because they know the article must be as nearly perfect as possible for the whole world reads and criticizes.

Then too, it develops self reliance and prepares children to better travel the rocky road of life.

Every newspaperman knows that three-fourths of the communications that come to his desk are ungrammatical and badly written, and this plan of teaching the children how to write and handle "copy" is but the stepping stone to other and greater achievements.

Daughter of Pioneer Capistrano Family Tustin Man's Bride

MRS. FRANK WINTERBOURNE

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Oct. 31.—Miss Daisy Margaret Magdalin Yorba, daughter of a pioneer family of this place, became the bride of Frank Winterbourne of Tustin at a ceremony performed last week in Tustin. Mr. Winterbourne is associated with his father in the publication of the Tustin News and the San Juan Capistrano Missionite. The couple will live in Tustin.

ORANGE PUPILS WIN PICTURE FOR SCHOOL

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—"The Edge of the Vintage" is the name of the beautiful new picture that Orange union high school won by selling more fair tickets than any other district in Orange county.

The picture is an autumn scene showing the rich glow of a California autumn. This picture could have been painted anywhere in Southern California.

The artist who painted the picture, Benjamin C. Brown, of Los Angeles, is an elderly man, and he paints a great deal.

Miss Hall, the art director at Orange high school, says: "It is a really fine thing for us to have one of Mr. Brown's pictures."

The picture will be presented to the school by Mr. Smiley, president of the farm bureau, Friday night, November 2, in the high school auditorium.

There will be a committee appointed to decide where to hang the picture. It will be in the art room for a few days for the art classes to study. The Girl Reserves had charge of the selling of the tickets, and the students of the high school greatly appreciate the way they put it across.

PARADE ROUTE IS GIVEN FOR FLOATS

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—The route to be taken by the Armistice day parade Monday Nov. 12, was announced Tuesday afternoon. Although the features and the actual displays will extend over what is termed a four mile length, the parade will travel approximately 20 blocks of pavement.

The parade will start at Tustin avenue and Chapman street, travel west to the Plaza, then south to Almond street, west on Almond to Cypress street, then north on Cypress to Chapman street, east on Chapman to the Plaza, north on Glassett street to Walnut street, where the parade will be disbanded.

ORANGE SCHOOL TO SHOW GOOD FILMS

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—The Orange high school is to have four good motion picture numbers for assemblies.

The first one is "Head Hunter of the South Seas," and is a Martin Johnson production depicting the life, customs, and manners of the native cannibal races of the South Sea Islands.

Then there is "Nanook of the North," showing amazing and dramatic seal fights, walrus hunts, travels through smothering snow storms, over trackless ice fields, while fighting for life with the elements in the frozen north.

"Silas Marner" is the third one of the list. This film follows George Eliot's book very closely. Frederick Warde, the eminent Shakespearean actor, takes the leading role, and is supported by an excellent cast. This number is considered a masterpiece.

Last is "My Own United States." This is an accurate film version of Edward Everett Hale's "The Man Without a Country."

SEAL BEACH PASTOR BORN IN SCOTLAND

SEAL BEACH, Oct. 31.—Dr. McNamara, true to his promise, made the trip from Chicago in time to reach Long Beach Saturday and was in Seal Beach in time for Sunday school and to preach at both the morning and evening services yesterday.

Dr. McNamara is a Scotchman by birth and is one of those who proudly claims Edinburgh as his native city. He received his education there and in Dublin, Ireland, and in company with his father, spent several years in India.

The new pastor of the Seal Beach church was a member of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in Baltimore, Md., and also a member of the general conference at Minneapolis, Minn. Later he acted as district superintendent of Fargo conference in the North Dakota territory.

Dr. McNamara has come to California to stay and expects to be in Seal Beach Tuesday ready to take active charge of the pastoral duties and hopes to have his daughters with him in the near future and re-establish the home which has been broken up since the death of Mrs. McNamara.

A reception in his honor will be held at the church Wednesday evening and all who are interested are urged to come out and get acquainted, and give their best help in the work before the church for the next year.

Fourth Estate Men Accept Invitation

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—More than 100 editors representing dailies throughout Southern California, will be here Armistice day, according to announcement made Tuesday by Major Harry G. Upham, chairman of the parade committee, who yesterday received a communication accepting an invitation extended to the Editors association.

J. R. Gabbert, Riverside editor, president of the Southern California Editorial association accepted the invitation.

Following the parade the editors will be the guests at a noon luncheon following which they will listen to an address of Governor Friend W. Richardson, their former colleague, if he is able to be present.

During the afternoon the editors, it is expected, will attend the football game between the local high school team and Hollywood high school at the Orange athletic field.

In addition to the plans for the entertainment of the editors, Major Upham announced that five new sections of bleachers have been added to the athletic field, and numerous other floats have been assigned to take places in the parade.

A naval band, as well as three municipal bands, representing Anaheim, Huntington Beach and Fullerton, have already been engaged to furnish music along the line of march. Others are still to be procured.

BEACH GIRLS HAVE "HI JINKS" FROLIC

HUNTINGTON BEACH UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 31.—Last week the girls of Huntington Beach high school were all off in groups of their own classes. Many wise heads were seen together and voices were lowered when other girls passed by. (What is all this mystery, was the main question).

The secrets came out when the Girls' League gave their annual Hi Jinks on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 24. Each class put on a skit and the competition was keen, as a prize was offered for the best skit.

The freshmen received first prize. The whole freshmen class gave a skit entitled "The Little Red School House." The prize was a large box of chocolates.

The seniors received second place. They gave a sketch entitled "The Gossips."

The juniors gave two short skits. The first was "Proposing Under Difficulties," the second, "A Negro Wedding."

The sophomores gave a scene entitled "Death Valley."

Katherine Noble received first prize, for the prettiest costume. She was dressed in a beautiful blue and orange Chinese creation.

Thelma McKinley received first prize for the cleverest costume. She was dressed as a modern "sheik."

After the skits the girls enjoyed dancing in the main hall.

Street Opening Is Opposed by Builder

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—J. S. Simmons of this city appeared before the board of trustees Tuesday afternoon and presented a signed petition protesting to the opening of what will be Citrus street.

He declared that he had already made contracts for the plumbing and lumber with which he intended building about six or seven houses and that the opening of this street by the board would cost him $100 per month which he would have secured through rentals of the new building.

His request was denied.

NEW PLANS MADE FOR LEGION DANCE

ORANGE, Oct. 31.—Barred from holding a street dance, through action taken by the board of trustees several weeks ago, when the exception of Mayor O. E. Gunther and Trustee Witzell, the board sanctioned the death knell on street dancing in Orange, the entertainment committee has been compelled to make other plans for dancing as one of the entertainment features planned in this city for the armistice day celebration, November 14.

The Western Cordage company has offered their new building, which is nearing completion, to the American Legion and it is believed that a dance will be held in this building that night. This dance will be free. The entertainment committee of the Legion has also planned to use the Carrol's Dance Studio for the Legion hall the same evening.

It had formerly been planned to hold a gigantic street dance on a near the Plaza but when members sought permission from the board, that body denied the necessary permission.

TEXAS BANKER TO SELL REAL ESTATE

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 30.—H. L. Andrews, Texas banker, has moved to this city and will locate here in the real estate business with Lew Wallace, banker of this city. The firm will occupy offices on Twenty-second street near the bank building, as soon as the building has been remodeled.

In an interview Mr. Andrews declared that his first banking schooling has been in commercial banks. Later he became secretary to Ex-Governor Blanchard of Louisiana. After that he had a position of trust with the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas, Texas.

Recently he organized and was the active vice-president of the Citizens State Bank of Mountainair, N. M. During a year of that time he was receiver of the Mountainair State bank and special agent of the Federal Reserve bank. He has also been in the land business in Estancia valley.

A PUZZLE A DAY

When the Italians evacuated the Isle of Corfu, a hastily made Greek flag was hoisted. Some one noticed that the flag contained 11 stripes, as shown in the drawing. The regulation flag should have only nine stripes; five in the upper part, and four in the lower. The flag was taken down, and cut into two pieces, which were sewn together so that they formed the nine-striped flag. Can you show how the flag was divided?

THE BEST WALNUTS ON EARTH

The selection of Orange county walnuts by the California Walnut Growers' association for its shipment to Europe is a well deserved recognition. The high average of excellence of the product of Orange county's walnut associations has been raised year by year not only through the betterment of packing house methods but also through the gradual increase of the proportion of budded walnuts.

Santa Ana has long been credited with holding first place in the world as a shipping point for walnuts. Some ten or twelve years ago, A. C. Tiede, who was then secretary of the local association, gathered railroad and steamship statistics from all over the world and proved that Santa Ana was entitled to the distinction. So far as we know, no effort has been made in recent years to check over shipping reports to see if this city is entitled to the honor. No other city has disputed the claim.

Now, in addition to asserting claim to having the largest shipping point for walnuts in the world, Orange county is entitled to declare that it grows the best walnuts in the world. When the California Walnut Growers' association was commissioned to send to Europe 100 sacks of the best walnuts to be had, the association selected 100 sacks of budded nuts from the product of the San Joaquin Walnut Growers' association. There may be and doubtless are some among the local associations in the county who would like to dispute with the San Joaquin association the right to the honors accorded it, but there is none who will dispute the judgment of the California Walnut Growers' association in selecting Orange county walnuts to be sent to Europe as the best on earth.

USE OF INTELLIGENCE TESTS

We found ourselves very much interested in the remarks of Dr. Thomas Newlin, of the Fullerton union high school faculty, before the teachers' institute at Orange. Dr. Newlin discussed the intelligence tests, declaring them to be a help in education, as they have been in business. To our mind the most striking declaration he made was that those tests "are not the panacea for all educational ills," and the reason we consider the declaration striking is that it sounds the note of warning that has been needed in educational circles for some years.

It is a well known fact that educators are not free from fads. In their earnest desire to advance the cause to which they are devoting their lives, they sometimes seize upon things that have not been given the test of time. There was something of that tendency displayed in the sweep given to psychological examinations in schools. Through these tests it was proposed to find every child's niche and put him in it. The psychologists made no allowance for possibilities of error, and their methods as applied in schools have not always been wise.

The pendulum is swinging back, if we read aright the attitude of educators as expressed by Dr. Newlin. Instead of a cure-all, which Dr. Newlin says the intelligence tests are not, the tests are looked upon as a means of help. Instead of being credited with finality, they are advisory. The teacher is not supposed to take the result of an intelligence test as the last word, forever and ever amen, but is now given the privilege of adjusting the information given her through the tests to the conditions that prevail in the lives of her students and to the conditions in her classroom.

At least, that is our interpretation of the brief news reports that we have seen of Dr. Newlin's address, and with that interpretation we cast our favorable vote. Intelligently applied, the intelligence tests are of high value. Mistakenly applied, they are more or less of a failure. It is a mistake, we believe, to allow information gained through the tests to become known to children and oftentimes it is a mistake to pass the information to parents. No child, be he slow or superior, should know how he stands in relation to the intelligence quota records of his fellow students.

"One of the most feasible means for the enlargement of the facilities of the University of California to take care of the tremendous demands being made upon it would be to allow the people to vote bond issue, as was done in 1914, thereby raising sufficient funds for all of the Berkeley, Los Angeles, Riverside and San Diego building needs," says the Riverside Enterprise. "It will not be possible to secure these funds from the legislature."

A HINT TO LLOYD GEORGE

There are times when common folk are extra thankful that they are not celebrities. The Prince of Wales was not wholly successful in evading public duties and the scrutiny of the crowd when he recently tried to do so. And now David Lloyd George, traveling in America because he wanted to see that great continent for himself, is not having things all his own way.

The ex-premier of one of the world's greatest democracies is quoted as saying, "I do so much want to see the homes, I shall not be able to see as much of that phase of your great nation as I wanted to. There is where a people's real greatness lies."

In spite of his personal wishes, his very prominence in the world's eye necessitates that he be hurried great gathering to great gathering, that he make after speech and go through innumerable recitations and speak into amplifiers that enable him to be heard of hearers at one time.

Asked for a "typical American meal" a chef served him up a feast fit for a king, a typical of American cookery. To Mr. Lloyd George that when this miss the boat which should take him back into the crowd, start out on his own arranging. There is lots more he public has already shown that he ought to see it.

DAY DREAMING

tion in business or art. He is brilliant and popular. He spends a million dollars. He revels in his favorite sport. He enjoys the comforts of sense. Or he merely watches, entranced, the panorama of pictures conjured up by unfettered fancy. His mind is at play.

"There you are," says the scientist. "The reason why we daydream is because we get pleasure from it. We enjoy the moving picture show of idle fancies and trivial recollections which, without any effort at all, come floating into our minds during these periods of mental relaxation. And what does it get us? Nothing!"

The reader may be struck instantly with the similarity of this process to the watching of a moving picture on the screen by a passive, comfortable spectator.

Doesn't this explain the tremendous popularity of the movies? They are a mechanical aid to daydreaming. The dreamer doesn't even have to furnish his own dreamstuff. There it is, moving before his eyes, with no effort whatever on his part, and perhaps in greater richness and variety than his own fancy could provide.

Maybe Papyrus would have done better if he'd eaten American oats.

Four Thousand Givers

San Bernardino Sun
When the Community Chest report was announced at the close of the successful campaign that gathered in $40,000 for the service and charitable agencies of the city, the statement was that this fund was the work of 2600 individual givers. As a matter of fact, it included about 4000 givers, but two subscriptions representative of large groups of people were entered as individual because of the manner in which they reached headquarters. One of these was the subscription of $600 from the Carpenters' Union. The other was credited to the high school. The former represented several hundred craftsmen. The latter was the contribution of about 800 members of the high school student body. In both cases it is strictly proper to recognize them as the subscriptions of individuals, and to add to the total by the number of people they represent, which would take the total number of givers to not less than 4000.

This begins to indicate how thoroughly the Community Chest took hold of the city, to explain why it was a success, and it gives the greatest promise for the future, if the administration of the chest during the year shall be as satisfactory as was the campaign by which the money was raised.

Perhaps nothing that has been done in this city in recent years has received such widespread and such favorable publicity. Evidently, the brethren of the press were on the watch for the result, uncertain whether such an ambitious program could be successfully carried through. But San Bernardino is listed as the city which does things, and Community Chests are just like other efforts that can be accomplished if the energy is put forth.

While the Riverside Press was "Felicitating a Neighbor," the Riverside Enterprise, the Redlands Press, the Colton Courier, the Ontario Report, the Pomona Progress and the Bulletin, and the Santa Ana Register have also been making favorable editorial comment, and all of the metropolitan papers carried the news, while half the towns in Southern California are seriously considering the chest plan as a result of its success in San Bernardino. So far as we know, Pasadena is the only other Southern California city to adopt the plan ahead of San Bernardino. It has been in vogue there for two years.

Felicitating a Neighbor

Riverside Press
Riverside congratulates its neighbor, San Bernardino, on having put over a drive for a $40,000 community chest. It is no small undertaking to raise so imposing a sum, even in so enterprising a city as San Bernardino, and the fact that the sum was contributed by a total of 2600 people speaks well for the committee making the canvass and the citizens themselves.

The community chest plan is a modern development growing out of World War drives. It was found possible with a multiplicity of drives to provide adequately and divide equitably between the various agencies, such as the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus and charitable institutions. The community chest plan has been adopted by 100 of the most progressive cities of the United States, and wherever tried it has proven an unqualified success. San Bernardino is to be felicitated on becoming one of the progressive 100.

ARE GALL STONES COMMON?

Physicians who are in a position to know from the examination of bodies after death estimate that one in every ten persons has gall stones. Now, the number showing symptoms of stones is not one in a hundred, so that you may have a collection of your own and never know it. But if they start to act up, you are likely to know it all right, as the pain is very severe like an auger boring its way right from your breast in front through to the back, with a sensation like the tearing of flesh.

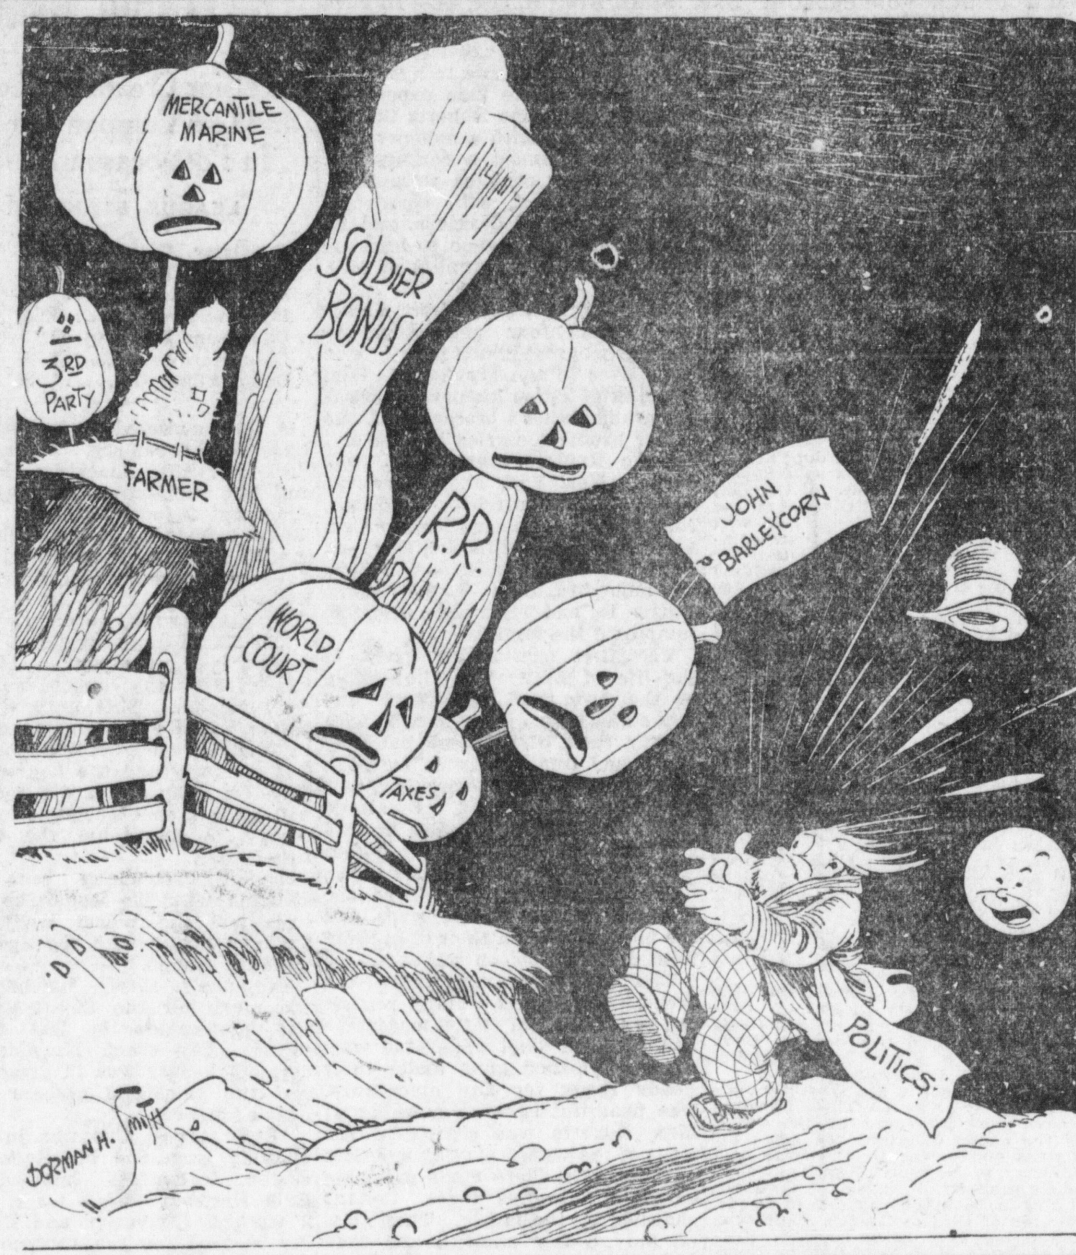

Before the pain comes on there is a feeling of "all goodness," nausea, and a chill. The pain is nearly always in the same place just a little to the right of the lower end of the breast bone. If it goes over into the right shoulder you can be pretty sure it is the pain of gallstones.

Many people think they have neuritis when it is really the gall stone pain going over into the shoulder. Perhaps half the cases will have the yellowness or jaundice of the skin with the attack. You see, as long as the gall stones remain in the gall bladder and you don't eat too much, there are usually no symptoms. But once one of the stones tries to go through the narrow tube from the gall bladder to the intestine, then naturally the trouble starts, and you have the terrific tearing pain spoken of above.

Now what causes these gall stones? Well, it is pretty well agreed that "stagnation" in the flow of bile is the underlying cause. Do you catch the word? Stagnation. This may be induced by eating heavily and taking no exercise, by the pressure of tight clothing, or due to a faulty position standing, which drags on the liver and gall bladder.

And the treatment? Just care. Care in eating. Where there is no indigestion, there are usually no symptoms. Small meals taken often are advisable, and fats should be cut down to the smallest possible amounts. Vegetables like peas, beans and raw fruits which cause a great deal of gas should be avoided. Hot water taken three or four times a day is a help. A teaspoonful of glycerin daily is one method of treatment much used. Alcohol in any form should be avoided where gall stones are suspected. Not a Dream, A Vision

A water supply for Southern California from the Colorado river, that is the daring dream of William Mulholland, of Los Angeles, one of the West's great engineers, and with the Los Angeles aqueduct from Inyo county already in his credit as a defiance of seemingly impassable mountain ranges and desert reaches. It is announced that Mr. Mulholland is seriously studying the possibilities of bringing a stream of water from the proposed Boulder Canyon dam two and one-half times as great as that now carried in the aqueduct from Inyo county.

In the arid West it is an axiom that all growth and development is limited by or at least measured by the available water supply. Absolutely, water is not only the means of life, it is life itself, as well as the basis of all growth and development. And it is no secret that the growth of Los Angeles has brought into the world the possibilities of the growing demands of that ever-growing metropolis. Nothing more natural, therefore, than that its engineers should begin to look for a supplemental and greater water supply, and there are but two possible. One would be for the State of California to adopt the so-called Marshall plan, by which an eminent engineer proposes to shift the entire watershed of the State southward—bringing the Klamath River through the Siskiyou Mountains into the Sacramento Valley; by means of high lines and tunnels carrying the Sacramento River along the west slopes of the Sierras to the San Joaquin Valley, and then bring the San Joaquin waters through the Tehachapi Mountains into Southern California. Impossible, you say? That word is not in the engineers' dictionary.

The only other available water supply possible must come from the Colorado River. Either of these suggestions would cost many millions. At a hazard, it is now said that to bring water from the Colorado at Boulder Canyon to Southern California would cost $100,000,000. The Marshall plan would cost all of that, although it would benefit a much larger territory. The Klamath River is a big stream running to the sea. Northern California has no use for a tithe of its waters.

To begin with, the Boulder Canyon proposal must be either a national, a state, or at least a Southern California affair. It is too big for Los Angeles to handle alone. The metropolis could finance the $25,000,000 required for the original aqueduct, but when it comes to $100,000,000 proposals, it would probably require the combined assessable wealth of the southland to support it, and while it must be conceded in advance that Los Angeles would dominate, the benefits would be distributed if the law so provided in advance. There is perhaps no use that the surplus waters of the Colorado could be put to that would result in the creation of such great wealth as for them to be dropped over the mountains into this magnificent valley that stretches from the San Bernardino range to the Pacific strand.

The project involves such Broddingnagian plans as almost to stagger imagination. Gravity flow favors the Los Angeles aqueduct, comparatively short tunnels making this possible, but to get the waters of the Colorado river over the mountains into Southern California by tunnel would probably involve prohibitive expense, and instead, the largest pumps in the world are suggested as the means of boosting the water over the crest, the pumps to be operated by power originally developed at Boulder Canyon, while in falling down the south slope of these mountains tremendous quantities of electric power would in turn be developed.

It is perhaps the one water supply that might possibly be secured to continue the growth of population and agriculture and industry in Southern California. The Inyo county supply, 400 second feet in engineers' measurement, is the equivalent of what 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 people require. If a supply of 1,000 second feet were obtained from the Colorado, that might predicate an added population in Southern California of 7,500,000! There will be many difficulties, many obstructions, many problems to solve, not only with reference to state rights but perhaps even international questions. But water means everything, and there is a way.

WIND
Wind, why must you be tearing this black night
So that a little house shudders and creaks with dread?
There's a moan in the deep sky and a moan in a low room,
—Proud lad he was and he not lifting his head.

Run to the hills, wind, your breath rough in the heather,
Why would you be flickering the candle with a poor lad lying!
Whip, an' you will, sleepy lake water
But take your fingers out o' the hair o' the dying.

Sweep down a sloping field and by crouching gorse,
The brown grouse will not care, nor start up in fright.
The smoke blows back and climbs to the rafters,
—O wind, wind, must you be rending this night!

Is the World Thinking C1?

Tom Bodine in Paris (Mo.) Mercury

The behavior of a generation, or, in the parlance of other days, the conduct of a generation, springs naturally out of what that generation reads and thinks. Or, if you would rather, out of its "ideals," though the phrase, "its philosophy of life," would more aptly express the matter. The varying human attitudes toward life and its relationships that distinguish succeeding periods are as old as the race itself, are mere periodical recurrences of the same fundamental thought, and there is no system or philosophy of living which you might name which has not been tried out, under one name or another, in the laboratory of human experience.

Nothing, absolutely nothing, is new under a sun that has for millions of years looked down on the struggles of the human atom. Oldest of all and most often rejected, is this ultra "modern" stuff, known familiarly as "self-expression," but which, since its revival by a German maniac 50 years ago, has carried a dozen different labels. It is as hoary as human depravity and as ancient as original sin itself.

And yet, wherever we turn, we are confronted with the underlying thought on which in varying manifestations, it is built. Torn from the tomb of dead philosophies, smiling even of its musty grave, it is being woven throughout the entire woof of our modern life, and the changes it is working, so insidious as to be almost imperceptible, are sapping the foundations on which human hope is built.

In religion it manifests itself in the multitude of so called "schools," each more vaguely introspective than that which went before, and in social relationships and ethics it is formulated in a hundred crazy preachments apothosizing the individual ego and placing self at the center of the universe. Duty, sacrifice, surrender, abnegation, effacement, once symbols of the loftiest and noblest of human virtues, have come to be devoid of meaning. Under no circumstances must we do that which does not please us, even if in doing it we make another happy. Finding happiness, real happiness, in making others happy, even those you love, is a lost art, absurd to begin with. The primary and only obligation, both in religion, or in "science" we should say, and in social relationships, is to self. Self-development should be the controlling motive, "each must live his own life"—you've heard that, haven't you?—and if, in the exercises of this paramount obligation we run into or trample upon the hearts of others, so much the worse for our luckless fellows. We may have nothing to express, but it is incumbent on us all the same to express it.

Such doctrine is subversive of the entire code of natural rights, and religious, ethical and social chaos is its inevitable consequence. Yet, you hear it prattled on every side today, and even those who have not formulated it, unconsciously act upon it. That's what ails the world—it is thinking crooked, and has become a bedlam of feeble individualism shrieking about itself from every household. Our religious monstrosities, our literary abnormalities and our social excesses are all symptoms of the same underlying disease of crooked thinking. We even refuse to obey the law because obedience is unpleasant. Self is on one of its recurring debauches, the distance, with a slight million dead stillbirths, with homicide a rampant, and lack-name as a virtue by the conform to the me, looks to be the most destructive ramph to human ego has.

JOHNNIE of the CIRCUS and his CUFFY BEAR

By ARTHUR SCOTT BAILEY

Before Johnnie Green knew what had happened
AN ERRAND FOR COMMODORE MUDGETT.

One morning on the circus lot Commodore Mudgett, the Midget, hopped out of a buggy and waved to Johnnie Green.

"Come here, my hearty!" he called. "I've just come from the village. I did an errand there for Mrs. Puffer. This is her package. Will you do me a favor and give it to her?"

Johnnie took the package somewhat doubtfully. "I don't know who Mrs. Puffer is," he said. "She joined the show last evening," the Commodore explained. "Maybe you'd gone to the train when she arrived. You'll find her easily enough. Just ask anybody you see for Mrs. Puffer."

So Johnnie set out on the errand. "Do you know where Mrs. Puffer is?" he inquired of Mr. Guffey, the Giant, a few moments later.

Mr. Guffey nodded toward an open doorway nearby. "She's in there," he answered. "I've just been inside, getting acquainted. And I must admit she's an addition to the show. She's the genuine article, and no mistake."

Johnnie Green stepped forward and looked inside the tent. A stranger sat there. But it certainly could not be Mrs. Puffer. "I—er—excuse me!" Johnnie mumbled. "I was looking for Mrs.

He was holding the Bearded Lady's

"Mrs. Puffer is All the time the stranger moving his hands in an odd way—for a gentleman, I was surprised to see that person, who had a long beard knitting. "Mrs. Puffer, this bearded stranger press "You are," cried Johnnie. "Oh! I—I—Commodore M asked me to give you some "That package? Is that m asked Mrs. Puffer.

"Yes, sir," said Johnnie G. Mrs. Puffer took it and it. She spread out as many dozen and a half skins of a "Ah!" she exclaimed. "I will keep me busy every to do, young man?"

"No, sir!" Johnnie replied. "No, ma'am, you mean?" Puffer corrected him. "You I'm the Bearded Lady. As since you've nothing special, just hold this skin of mine while I wind it into a ball before Johnnie Green knew had happened, she had slipped skin upon his hands.

"I could think, all at once, number of things he had plan to do that morning.
